BRIAND, POINCARE ACCUSED OF PLOT TO DISRUPT SOVIET

Many Prominent Capitalistic Foreigners Named in Sensational "Expose" at Moscow.

8 RUSSIANS JAILED FOR HIGH TREASON

Dossier Reconstructs Far-Flung Conspiracy To Conquer Russia and Divide It Among Nations.

MOSCOW, Nov. 11.—(AP)—From a dossier of indictments and purported confessions in the hands of the people's commissar for justice there emerged today Soviet charges of an international plot to overthrow the government and to parcel out some of the country's most valuable natural resources among the nations which fringe her borders.

Eight Russians, said to be anti-Soviet, are in prison under charges of high treason, the punishment for which is death. The alleged confessions of one of them—the counter-revolutionist, Ramin—names a group of outstanding figures in half a dozen nations as co-conspirators with the leaders of the plot in Moscow.

Sir Henri Deterding, British oil magnate, is named as one of those who aided in financing the preliminary revolutionary campaign.

Former Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand, of France, are called "arch conspirators," and the name of Britain's "Lawrence of Arabia" is the final bid of color in the picture.

From Ramin's purported confession the government has reconstructed the elaborate plot. It was hatched in Moscow and Leningrad, fed with foreign capital in Paris and supported by active sympathizers in Poland, France, Poland, Finland, Rumania and other "capitalist" nations.

No Incident.

There was to have been a diplomatic "incident" on the Russian border, and Rumania was to have declared war. In quick succession, Poland, France and England were to have followed her example.

An army of 600,000 men under the white general, Loukomsky, was to have marched on Moscow, gathering strength of numbers as it went, through enthusiastic and discontented peasants. Simultaneously, an army under the white general, Denikin, was to move on Leningrad.

France was to supply arms and ammunition and the British fleet was to steam into the Baltic and the Black sea, seizing the Crimea and Leningrad. All this was to be done by the summer, the Soviet government asserts, but discord between France and Italy and the uncertainty of Germany's attitude of the plot were to delay their first open attack.

The revolutionists were to install a "bourgeois democratic republic" and in return for their support they were to share some of Russia's richest sources of wealth.

Britain was to have the Caucasian oil fields, France was to have the valuable concessions; Poland was to share the Ukraine with France, and other allies were to be rewarded proportionately.

The new government was virtually decided upon, with Ramin as its most likely head, the alleged confessions said.

No Names.

The indictment on which Ramin and his seven associates are held, and the alleged confessions of the conspirators avoid mention of names, but it was implied that the only "French institution" at Moscow is the French embassy.

Through the "institution," the government charges, Poincare and Briand played their important parts in the plot. Other foreign allies contributed their assistance through the "trade industrial committee" at Paris.

The eight prisoners, four of them educators and the others engineers, are to be tried at a special sitting of the Soviet supreme court on charges of high treason, counter-revolutionary activity.

Hundreds Offer Home For "Cussing" Parrot

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11.—(AP)—That red-headed, cussing parrot cannot live in the St. Louis zoo because he swears too frequently, but he will get a good home any way.

Nation-wide publicity he received from a little story telling of his swearing proclivities and his predicament has brought more than 500 letters to the zoo from all parts of the country and Canada and he is to be sold to the highest bidder. An offer of $50 has been received.

FESS IS ATTACKED FOR ARID STAND BY G. O. P. LEADERS

Congressman Britten and Former Senator Wadsworth Advocate New Republican Chairman.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Attacks from two anti-prohibition quarters were directed today at Senator Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the republican national committee, for his warning against measures to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

Representative Britten, republican, Illinois, said "When Senator Fess says 'prohibition is here to stay' he is talking for himself and not as chairman of the republican national committee." He advocated the national committee select another chairman.

Former Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York, a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, took issue with the Ohioan's suggestion that the republican party would split if it favored repeal.

"We want our party to be right," Wadsworth said, "on the only fundamental constitutional issue that has arisen since the day of the Civil War and we will fight to make it right, split or no split."

Both said Senator Fess was unable to see progress toward repeal.

"If Senator Fess is so blind or so intolerant," Britten said, "that he cannot analyze the desires of millions of Americans in progressive northern states, the national committee should elect another chairman before the arid stand further depresses his party."

"Leaving the solid democratic vote entirely out of future republican calculations, it must be patent to anyone that the party will rise or fall by the outcome of such wet republican states as New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio, to say nothing of the many smaller wet republican states."

"Senator Fess' leadership of the national committee has been colorless and void of the slightest comprehension of political strategy. It is leadership which has brought defeat. The republican national committee should meet at once for a general discussion of the best interest of the party. The recent election returns should be carefully scrutinized and a ground plan laid for two years hence, when a serious and everything that goes into it will be at stake."

Britten said Senator Fess was an ardent republican but that "he also is an intolerant dry." It is his republican success would hinge largely upon party leadership "which rightfully secures public opinion in the national states."

Wadsworth said if the republican party were to "have a split and I am not so sure of that" what kind of split is better, a split caused by a straight-out manly declaration on the fundamental importance of repeal or a split caused by a half-hearted and insincere adherence to prohibition?

"The trouble with Senator Fess," the New Yorker said, "is that he cannot see what is going on in this country. Tears dim his sight. The plain fact is that the prohibition law is a ghastly failure, and no change in penalties or procedure will make it successful."

No Names.

The indictment on which Ramin and his seven associates are held, and the alleged confessions of the conspirators avoid mention of names, but it was implied that the only "French institution" at Moscow is the French embassy.

Prayer and Poppies Mark Atlanta's Salute of Silence To Memory of War Dead and Battle-Scarred Veterans

Unmuffled of the downpour of rain that kept many Atlantans beneath shelter during Armistice Day, thousands of others stood uncovered Tuesday at Five Points while the new flag, presented to the city by the American Legion Post 1, was being hoisted a moment before the two-minute period of silent prayer. In the photograph above (left)

An unnatural, entrancing silence of two minutes, ended by the sad sweet notes of a lone bugle sounding the retreat for the soldier, symbolized Atlanta's solemn gesture of remembrance Tuesday to a day 12 years before, when the war of nations ceased.

In the chill, gray murk of mist and rain, a few thousand persons stood with heads bowed while the climax of Armistice Day was observed after a brief military demonstration carried out by a short parade of members of the local post of the American Legion. Led by the drum corps, Disabled American Veterans, it ended at Five Points. With appropriate ceremonies, including the hoisting of a new flag presented to the city by the Legion, the lowering of the colors to half staff in memory of the war dead, and a prayer uttered by Dr.

Al Rouser, of the American Legion, is shown as he begins to hoist the new flag, while Mose Bell, chief bugler of the Disabled American Veterans drum and bugle corps, sounds "to the colors." The new flag was accepted on behalf of the city by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale. Staff photo by Bill Mason.

D. Witherspoon Dodge, chaplain of the Legion post.

National institutions were closed in honor of the day, and while state, county and city departments took part in the observance, with special programs dedicated to the valor and glory of democracy, business, private and public, generally carried on as usual.

Everywhere the symbol of the Flaming Poppy was in evidence. Members of the American Legion auxiliary bravely ignored the dreary drip of a cold rain and stood on street corners with their little clusters of artificial poppies made by hands that once shouldered rifles Over There. In lapels the flaming red symbol glowed like a living promise to those who served in the ranks—as it was in the Legion post.

His seconds pleaded with him to go on in and turn loose some blows. They pounded the ring and urged him on, but DeKuh fought his own fight and it consisted of staying on top of W. L. all the way.

DeKuh landed one real punch during the fight, a blow to the head in the eighth round. In the clinches his tremendous height enabled him to land some punches on Stribling's kidneys, but they never slowed the Georgian down.

Stribling circled around and around, seeking to feint his opponent open, but DeKuh waited in his shell and left all the leading to the Georgian. Beyond a short lead with a left, which Stribling easily head-slipped, the Italian sought to open up the big fellow and land a killing punch.

The Georgian split his gloves as he hammered at the protecting shell which the Italian erected, but never once did the big boy uncover his chin or take a chance with a lead.

Peace Cannon Roar, Former Georgian Dies

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11.—(U. P.)—Cannon roared in Lafayette square today in commemoration of the armistice.

A few blocks away, Captain Marion S. Davis, 48, retired United States army officer and veteran of the World War, listened from his front porch.

He straightened, then slumped to the floor dead. Physicians said his death was due to heart failure.

METHODIST BODIES HOLD PRELIMINARY MEETINGS TODAY

Sessions of Various Boards To Prepare Delegates for Opening of Annual Conference Here.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Of the several hundred North Georgia conference members expected to meet in the city today to attend the annual conference session beginning Thursday at Wesley Memorial church, the larger part of them will probably be laymen. Also about 100 undergraduate clerical members of the church body are to come today, that they may appear before the examining committees appointed for that purpose.

Conference preliminaries will get under way at Wesley Memorial as several of the larger boards have meetings to arrange their annual reports. Judge John S. Candler, president of the board of education, has asked that board to meet today and complete arrangements for the merging of that board with the new board of education that will supervise all educational work in the church.

A special meeting of the board of missions is also scheduled for the day. Bishop Moore will meet with the presiding elders, it is understood, to give attention to arranging the schedule of appointments for the preachers next year.

At 7:30 o'clock tonight at Wesley Memorial church the anniversary of the Widows and Orphans Aid Association will be held. Rev. A. J. Sears, of Stone Mountain, presiding, and an address by Rev. W. T. Watkins.

Laymen's work will probably receive a larger portion of attention at this conference session than ever, since a new and larger program is to be considered, and since 180 lay members of the conference have been chosen to attend and represent the various districts.

Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory University, is conference lay leader, and will give direction to the laymen in their activities in promoting church enterprises.

The following laymen are expected to be here and take part in the conference deliberations, representing the districts noted:

Atlanta District—Dr. N. G. Slaughter, district lay leader; J. H. Hunter, Miss Ruby Anderson, A. S. Oldham, Miss Lampkin, Eddie Burt, E. W. Knott, M. A. Pharr, Mrs. Vera H. Ree, Rev. T. H. Dillard, C. C. Bridges, T. P. Wooten, J. C. Wardlaw.

North Georgia District—C. T. Grizzard, district lay leader; Judge John S. Candler, A. L. Brooke, Mrs. Wallace Rogers, J. V. Wilborn, Addison Maupin, John F. Cone, Mrs. W. W. Albright, Mrs. Virlyn B. Moore, Judge Warner H. Hill, Judge Clarence Bell, Curtis, J. N. McNeel, Judge J. H. D. Humphries, Judge Luther Z. Rosser, Mrs. Mildred Stokes, Dr. Harvey W. Cox, L. B. DeJarnette, Judge Drake, H. L. McPherson, Mrs. H. W. Maddox, Robert Lee Avery, H. R. Hunter, C. E. Lovett and Mrs. Birdie V. Moore.

South Georgia District—John W. Hardwick, district lay leader; J. L. Milam, Dr. R. E. Stone, Mrs. C. S. Miers, C. H. Sims, J. A. Mangel, M. King, Mrs. J. C. White, Rev. B. L. Ramsey, W. H. Butler, Dr. W. L. Ballenger, Judge J. W. Parker, E. R. Knott, H. L. McPherson, Mrs. H. W. Maddox, Robert Lee Avery, H. R. Hunter, C. E. Lovett and Mrs. Birdie V. Moore.

Augusta District—Dr. W. T. Price, district lay leader; J. C. Evans, Mrs. W. H. Clark, Mrs. M. H. Hendee, C. W. Coleman, J. E. Smith, Mrs. D. P. Johnston, J. D. Fouche, C. V. Curtis, J. P. H. Murphy and Judge W. L. Layton and L. M. Carr.

Dalton District—E. P. Hall, Jr., district lay leader; R. S. Wheeler, J. P. H. Murphy and Judge W. L. Layton and L. M. Carr.

CABINET MEMBER LIKELY TO APPEAR AND DENY CHARGES

Indicted Man Claims He Gave Walter Brown Benson's Money and Could Not Get It Back.

WESTBROOK SUES DOVE FOR $3,530

Atlantan Claims He Paid $1,000 to Committeeman for Rose's Internal Revenue Collector's Office.

Postmaster-General Walter F. Brown will be subpoenaed to come to Atlanta and testify in United States court when the case of John B. Dove, charged with "selling" the College Park postoffice and United States internal revenue collector's jobs, is called for trial.

Announcement that the member of President Hoover's cabinet charged with the administration of postal affairs would be requested to come here and deny statements already made by Dove came from the office of United States Attorney Clint W. Hager Tuesday after E. C. Westbrook had sworn out a federal warrant charging that Dove had promised to obtain the collector's office for Westbrook upon receipt of $1,000.

Brown Given Money, Charge.

Dove charged following his indictment that he had been attempting to recover the money for the College Park "sale" from Postmaster-General Brown.

"The $500 that Benson (J. P. Benson, of College Park) gave me, I have been trying to get back," Mr. Benson has said. "Walter Brown, I believe, is trying to prosecute me for the money I gave him."

Dove said he went directly to Brown and talked with the postmaster-general about the Benson College Park appointment. He said, in his statement, that the postmaster-general was asked to know if Benson was well off financially and when told he "was a good fellow," explained that he had sought to contribute "at least $500" to a man sent to his hotel room for delivery of the postmaster-general, adding that he and Benson had been trying to recover the money for more than a year.

Civil Suit Instituted.

In addition to the warrant issued by United States Commissioner J. E. Brown, of Newnan, substituting for Commissioner Griffith, Westbrook instituted a civil suit in Fulton superior court against Dove asking for return of $875 of the estimated job for sale the Georgia collector's job for sale, additional $2,575 in damages and lawyers' fees.

An early trial of the two cases against Dove is expected by the United States attorney's office but the summons for the postmaster-general, being an unusual move to completely discredit Dove, explained that the college Park postoffice transaction, will be forwarded to Washington for service at a time convenient to the cabinet member.

Westbrook alleges in his civil suit, which is an amplification of charges in the warrant issued by the commissioner, that he had been trying to recover the money for more than a year.

Destiny of India at Stake As Conference Opens Today

96 Delegates and Princes To Hear King George Address Round-Table Meeting.

BY FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The destiny of a country nearly as large as the United States, crowded with 350,000,000 people of conflicting racial strains and religious beliefs, is at stake in the Indian round-table conference which King George will inaugurate in the royal gallery of the house of lords at noon tomorrow.

His address and its import may be the most momentous of his reign, for no conference of modern times—not even the five-power naval parity, which the king opened in the same great hall last January—has been weighted with such responsibilities regarding the future of the British empire.

Out of it may come a United States of India within the British realm. But the torrent of Indian problems is far more complex than that which the American states faced in their federalization, for the inhabitants of this vast Asiatic territory speak 222 languages and are divided into 2,300 castes and sub-castes.

Moreover, dotted over the face of India lie more than 500 autonomous states whose ruling princes owe allegiance to the British king-emperor but whose domains are outside the governing system of British provinces in India. The millions of Indians in these states are not British subjects.

For weeks 56 delegates—57 from the British provinces, 16 from the autonomous Indian states, including nine ruling princes, and 13 members of the British parliament—have been assembling in London.

But their informal preliminary negotiations have served only to emphasize the tremendous problem they face in achieving the goal of responsible self-government for India. Tonight, on the eve of the meeting, no agreed procedure has been reached.

The only thing in common in this medley of races, tongues, castes and creeds is the English language, which all speak and which is the only means whereby all of India's clashing forces can voice their differences. Thus Hindus, Moslems, Buddhists, Parsees, spokesmen of the "untouchables," Indian women and members of the British parliament will debate in a common tongue.

Tomorrow's ceremonial will follow broadly the lines upon which the naval conference was inaugurated but will be much shorter, as all the speeches will be made in English and the tedious delay of translation thus will be obviated.

Some observers have felt that the absence of Mahatma Gandhi and his extreme Indian nationalists, who are boycotting the conference, dooms it to failure, but the highest officials of the British government were optimistic today and felt that results would be achieved.

Yet so delicate is the situation and so careful are the British sponsors of the meeting that Wellwood Benn, secretary for India, will not even intimate the likelihood of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's being named chairman of the conference, although the recognized custom of such gatherings calls for him to take the chair.

L. RALPH WRIGHT GETS PROMOTION

King Murphy, Georgia, manager of the Investors Syndicate, of Minneapolis, Minn., with offices in the Haeley building, announces the appointment of L. Ralph Wright, as assistant state manager. Such an appointment becomes necessary because of the increase in business this year. The first ten months of this year show an increase of 54 per cent over the same period in 1929, with Atlanta leading all southern cities. Mr. Wright has been Atlanta district manager for the past year.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS WISCONSIN CITY LAWS

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 11.—(AP)—The right of municipalities to enact ordinances prohibiting traffic in illicit liquor was upheld by the state supreme court today.

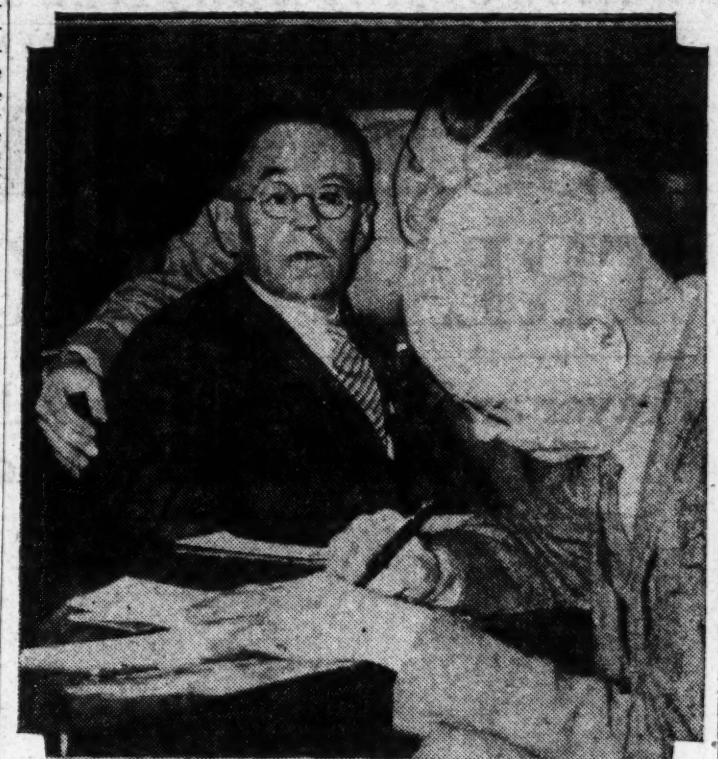

Wisconsin has no state liquor enforcement law.

William Hack brought the case to the supreme court on a writ of error after being fined $100 and costs and being sentenced to six months for violating a dry ordinance in the city of Mineral Point.

Chief Justice Marvin Rosenberry wrote:

"The fact that the suppression of the liquor traffic may be a matter of statewide concern and subject to regulation or suppression by the state does not deprive the city of power to act under its powers within its territorial limits."

Dr. Wilkins' Extortion Case May Reach Jury Thursday

Dr. John G. Wilkins, former city physician, charged with extortion, is shown above as he appeared Tuesday in Fulton superior court during the trial. Dr. Wilkins is in the dark suit at the left. Leaning over his shoulder is Defense Attorney William Bentley. At the right is the court reporter, H. L. Parry. Staff photo by Troy Bennett.

Trial of Dr. John G. Wilkins, former city physician, who is charged with extortion, will be resumed this morning in Judge Edgar E. Emory's division of Fulton superior court with the probability that the case will reach the jury during Thursday. A number of alleged victims of Dr. Wilkins testified Tuesday to payments of various sums for treatment. Dr. Wilkins, equipped with an earphone to better hear the testimony, was intensely interested in the proceedings Tuesday, following statements of witnesses attentively. In outlining Dr. Wilkins' defense, Attorney William Bentley told the jury that he and his associate, Attorney Paul S. Etheridge, expected to prove that Dr. Wilkins never received a single penny by extortion. This was in direct conflict with the opening statement of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, who told the jury that the state expected to show that Wilkins had extorted various sums from a number of women.

Women Are Witnesses. June Powers, Dorothy Johnson, Edna Vlass and Lillie Gilly told of alleged payments to Dr. Wilkins for releases from examination and for treatment. Maggie Jenkins testified that she saw Dorothy Johnson "pay $3.50 on the table for Dr. Wilkins for 'shots' lots of times." She also said she "paid him money for friends in jail to obtain releases for them when they were booked for examination."

Mrs. N. K. Bentley testified that she obtained narcotic prescriptions from Dr. Wilkins, and oftentimes left him 50 cents or $1 when she had it, but that he did not ask for the money.

Defense counsel attempted to show alleged bad character of several witnesses. Under cross-examination Dorothy Johnson said she "can't remember how many times I've been locked up," and Maggie Jenkins said she has had two state cases and been in police court so many times "I can't keep up with the dates." June Powers declared that Dr. Wilkins told her before she appeared before the grand jury that she would go to the chain gang unless she left town. She said she left town, but returned later.

The Jury. Members of the jury are A. K. Stovall, C. C. Morgan, J. F. Hicks, Frank Carter, C. P. Gilleland, C. T. Knight, L. L. Patterson, James Plennie Jones, C. E. McMichael, C. H. Criswell, J. E. Strawn and F. W. Myrick.

Assistant Solicitor-General Walter LeCraw is aiding Mr. Boykin in the prosecution.

BRAZIL REPORTS SEVEN NON-GRATAS

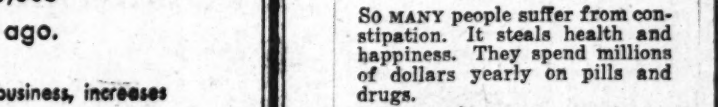

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 11.—(AP)—To the accompaniment of boots and jeers from dock workers, seven political deportees embarked for Europe today aboard the steamship Highland Chieftain.

The party consisted of Senator Irineu Machado, Juvenal Martins, former governor of Rio Grande do Norte; Francisco Pessoa, Donizoro, Oscar Decarvalho Azevedo, Pio de Cavalho, Pires Ferreira, son-in-law of the deposed President Washington Luis, and Mucio Continente, deputy from the state of Minas Geraes. Several were accompanied by members of their families.

They previously had been given refuge at various embassies and legations.

WOODRING HOLDS LEAD IN KANSAS

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Harry H. Woodring, democrat, held a lead of 501 votes over Frank (Chic) Hauke, republican, in the Kansas gubernatorial race late today when the inter-county absentee ballots in 57 of the state's 105 counties had been added to the regular vote previously reported. About 1,000 absentee votes remain to be tabulated.

THE CURE BEGINS IN THE KITCHEN

So many people suffer from constipation. It steals health and happiness. They spend millions of dollars yearly on pills and drugs.

That's the wrong way to try to cure constipation. The right way is to correct the diet—to add enough roughage to your food to sweep the poisons out of your system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to do this. This appetizing cereal is now available in two delicious forms: the original krumbled cereal, or the new Biscuit.

AMMEL PLANS FLIGHT BACK TO CHICAGO HOME

Pilot Also Plans Ocean Hop For Next Spring.

COLON, Canal Zone, Nov. 11.—(AP)—After resting here a few days, Captain Roy W. Ammel, who yesterday completed the first non-stop flight from New York to France field, expects to attempt a non-stop flight to Chicago, where he is a broker.

His first concern, he said here today, is to get back to his business in Chicago, but after that he will play a trans-Atlantic flight for next spring, probably to Paris or Rome.

The average price of goods sold at A&P stores last month was just over 10c a pound. In the same month a year ago the average price was more than 11c a pound.
The reason for this is that A&P gives its customers all the benefit of the lower commodity prices this year.

LOW PRICES MAKE JOBS

Increased Buying Speeds Wheels of Industry

All authorities agree that the best way to help business is to speed up consumption of goods. That sets idle wheels turning, increases employment of labor, and so adds to buying power. These same authorities agree that the best way to speed up consumption is to keep retail prices as low as possible. A&P does this in good times as well as in bad times. How this policy has worked in the present circumstances is shown by the fact that A&P is steadily adding to its payroll.

Today A&P is giving employment to 3,085 more wage earners than it did a year ago.

During the last year, because of the general slowing up of business, increases in salaries have been rare.

A&P has increased the average wage of all its employees by more than $50 a year.

The fact that A&P has been able to hire more workers and raise wages during hard times is due directly to its policy of cutting the retail price of food as fast as growers and producers reduce their prices to A&P.

SEVEN ADMIT PLOT IN SHOP BOMBING

Sheriff Announces Confessions Following Arrests in Albany Probe.

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Six men and a woman have confessed, Sheriff O. F. Tarter said today, to the bombing of a barber shop here Friday night. The woman, the sheriff reported, was one of three persons who confessed to the actual placing of the dynamite bomb that damaged the barber shop of J. A. Berry. The others, the officer said, admitted plotting the bombing.

All seven have been charged with dynamiting public property and endangering human life, an offense punishable in Georgia with a maximum penalty of death. An eighth person, Odell Jones, Albany barber, taken into custody today for questioning, has denied any connection with the case, the sheriff said. Jones was arrested on instructions of the sheriff after the latter reported one of the seven defendants accused him of participation in the plot. No charges have been filed against Jones.

The seven accused are:

Mrs. Danie H. Williams, a sister-in-law of Casper Vinson, Vienna barber and one of the defendants; George W. Philmon, operator of a competitive barber shop near the one which

Actors Want Jobs, Police Kept Busy

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Worthington Miner, director of "The Five Star Final," reached the Eltinge theater today to find a full-fledged mob waiting him.

At least 2,000 actors, actresses and would-be performers were there in person—looking for jobs. Last night Miner engaged five actors for the new play. The fortunate five told their friends and the crowd of job-seekers was the result.

was bombed: Robert Bowdon, a barber who worked for Vinson in Vienna; Eugene Mims, also an employee of Vinson; Harry McDowell, 16, of Vienna, and his uncle, Charles McDowell, Vinson formerly had been employed by Berry. Berry recently had attached Vinson's bank account on the claim of a debt, the sheriff said.

Tarter blamed personal and business enmity against Berry for the bombing, which caused personal injury to no one.

Mrs. Williams, Charlie McDowell and Mims were listed by the sheriff as those who confessed to placing a bomb containing six sticks of dynamite in front of Berry's shop. Vinson was said by the officer to have admitted purchasing dynamite and giving it to Bowdon and Mims with instructions to use it on Berry's place of business. The sheriff quoted Philmon as saying he offered Vinson $100 to dynamite the shop. Young Harry McDowell was said by the sheriff to have admitted making two trips to the shop with the intention of dynamiting it, but said they did not use the dynamite they told the sheriff they carried because they lost their nerve.

City Joins Nation and World In Recalling Armistice Day

tended to promise; and the nickels, dimes and quarters that dropped into the little tin buckets of the poppy women were given with a will, for the givers knew where that contribution would go. It would go, they knew, to the veterans no longer able to carry on many jobs, and to their families, in dire need.

At Decatur Congressman Robert Ramspeck was the principal speaker at ceremonies held at the courthouse, during which Mayor Scott Candler presented nine military medals to World War veterans whose fathers or grandfathers had served with the Confederate army during the Civil War.

Federal workers in this city celebrated Armistice Day, for the most part, by gathering in the chamber of the United States court of appeals, where they listened to a radio address by President Hoover.

Joint Luncheon Held.

Other activities included the joint luncheon held by the American Legion post and Kiwanis Club on the roof of the Ansley hotel, where W. A. Simon, of the post, was the principal speaker.

At Fort McPherson messages from Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, General John J. Pershing and General Charles P. Summerall were read, while statements stressing the meaning of the day were included in general orders. At the local armistice post, too, the flags were at half-mast as a mark of respect to General Tasker Bliss, who lay dead in Washington, as well as for the observation of Armistice Day. Arrival of Brigadier General E. D. Bricker, chief of ordnance, who is to inspect the fourth court, was the highlight of the celebration at McPherson added impetus.

For other Atlantans, however, the day was a holiday, despite the downpour on which to take advantage of the 10-round bout at Spiller park between Young Stribling and Arthur De Kuhl, thousands attending the event, which Stribling won by a decision.

Mrs. Arthur Hazard, "Poppy Day" chairman, reported Tuesday night that $3,500 was realized from the sale, with outlying districts yet to be heard from.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The anniversary of the Armistice struck twelve yesterday and one hundred million Americans observed it with a solemn, simultaneous silence.

They paused, these Americans, wherever they were at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, and bared their heads in memory of the moment when cannon sent their last roar of horror across a shrapnel-ravaged France.

President Hoover led the nation in its observance of the day, laying a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Loyal friends of the late Woodrow Wilson paid homage at the war president's tomb.

The sounding of taps, the halting of business, the booming of salutes were among the tributes America paid. In London, in Paris, in Geneva—seat of the League of Nations which was born of the war—and in other capitals of Europe similar ceremonies took place. King George of England, the Prince of Wales, the Princes of India and the prime ministers of the British dominions joined in tribute at the cenotaph in London. King Albert led the observance in Belgium.

At Miami, Fla., last night a "Last Man's Club" was formed with 11 members—all veterans of some American war and nine of them veterans of the World War. A bottle of liquor was sealed, the bottle to be opened by the last surviving man, who is to drink a toast to his departed comrades.

General Pershing, who was chief of the American Expeditionary Force, Secretary of War Hurley and General Summerall, chief of staff, were among officials who, in Armistice Day statements, sounded a note of hope for continuing peace.

HOOVER'S ADDRESS PART OF CAPITAL OBSERVANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Twelve years after the "cease firing" order was passed through the war-torn trenches of France and echoed around the world, President Hoover today led the nation in its Armistice Day tribute to the living and dead veterans of the World War with an appeal for the perpetuation of world peace.

After placing a wreath of yellow chrysanthemums on the marble tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, the chief executive, in an address before a national conference and a goodwill congress of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches, said the war had taught the blessing of peace, if nothing else.

Again urging American adherence to the World Court, he reiterated his proposal for freedom of the seas for food supplies in time of war and forecast possible extension of the Kellogg-Briand pact for outlawing war to mobilize world opinion against its violators.

He held that the time had not yet come when "we can assume that righteousness has so advanced in the world that we need not fear the confidence in the full growth of pacific means or rest solely upon the processes of peace for defense."

"The purpose of our government," he added, "is to cooperate with the world, to use our friendly offices, and, short of any implication of the use of force, to use every friendly effort to maintain the peace of the world."

With flags flying along the streets, from many government buildings and embassies of foreign governments, the national capital observed its patriotic tribute in observance of the day. The tomb of Woodrow Wilson in the national cathedral received its annual tribute of tribute, too. In addition to the hundreds of persons who visited the chapel where rests the body of the war president, a special service was conducted there.

In addition to the visit of the president and Mrs. Hoover, two other services were held at Arlington. The military chaplains who participated in the ceremony of the Unknown Soldier gathered at his shrine to read portions of the original service.

The goodwill congress of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches, which met at the Elberton district, asserted that "Armistice Day is poorly kept if it fails to sound a note against the uselessness, the folly, the wickedness and the horror of war as a method of settling international differences."

Similar expressions of hope for continued peace came from General John J. Pershing, who led the nation's military forces in the war, and from Secretary Hurley and General Charles P. Summerall, the present chief of staff of the army.

General Pershing expressed hope that there may never be another war. "It is the duty of living veterans of the great war to so guide the destiny of this nation that should war come it will find the American people prepared, materially and spiritually," he said.

BRITISH EMPIRE KEEPS
ANNIVERSARY OF WAR'S END
LONDON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The British empire today kept the 12th anniversary of the armistice with ceremonies of silence and prayer that the horror of the World War may never be repeated.

An empire-wide two-minute silence was observed at 11 a. m., while King George, symbolizing the grief of his realm at the war losses, stood with bowed head in prayer at the cenotaph, where just two years ago today he caught the cold which led to his long and serious illness.

AMERICAN COLONY JOINS IN PARIS OBSERVANCE
PARIS, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The American colony in Paris today joined with the French in solemn commemoration of the twelfth anniversary of the armistice.

The principal ceremony was at the Arc d'Triomphe, where President Doumergue, surrounded by members of the cabinet, reviewed a procession of troops, former combatants and war wounded. He then placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Norman Armour, charge d'affaires at the American embassy here, officially represented the United States. There also were delegations of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veterans' organizations present.

BRUSSELS SERVICE SHOWS
COMRADESHIP OF ALLIES
BRUSSELS, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Armistice services at the tomb of Belgium's Unknown Soldier today bore testimony to the close comradeship which still unites allied ex-service men. Delegations of the American, British, Italian and Russian legions, carrying their national colors, stood beside Belgium's former soldiers as King Albert laid his wreath upon the monument.

DO-X PASSENGERS, CREW
JOIN IN SILENT TRIBUTE
CALSHOT, England, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Captain Frederick Christiansen, commander of the huge German seagoing DO-X, and members of the flying boat's crew today observed the two minutes' silence period in commemoration of the armistice anniversary.

The commander and his crew stood bareheaded on one of the ship's floats. The flag of the German republic floated at half mast from the machine's stern.

DISARMAMENT GROUP
RECALLS SOLEMN MOMENT
GENEVA, Nov. 11.—(AP)—In memory of the dead of the World War the preparatory commission on disarmament of the League of Nations today stood in silence for one minute, beginning at 11 a. m. Thirty-two nations were represented in the ceremony.

stated that the board should take whatever action it deemed necessary and expedient to protect its own interests and declared that he approved a reduction in the membership of the board.

See More Satisfaction.
"I believe the people of Atlanta would be better satisfied with a smaller board elected from the borough at large," he said, "and I also believe that we should take action providing for certification to the tax collector the amount of money needed to operate the school system with a proviso in the charter that that amount will be forthcoming."

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, of the twelfth ward, urged the board to go on record without equivocation as favoring the Key plan, and it is his motion along with that of Commissioner Hancock that the special committee will decide on.

Mr. Sweat declared he will call a meeting of the committee this week, and Mr. Gaines said he will call a special meeting of the board to pass on the recommendation when the committee is ready to report.

Maddox Favors Cut.
Commissioner James W. Maddox, of the fifth ward, who declined to permit his name to be placed in nomination for the presidency, declared himself in favor of a reduction of the board.

"I believe that the people of Atlanta will favor a reduction of this board to five members elected from the borough at large," he said, "and I also am second to Commissioner J. Ira Harrison, of the fourth ward, who received seven votes while Harrison received five on the first ballot. A motion was made to make it unanimous, and it was passed without a dissenting vote."

The Key plan, calling for ward reduction and establishment of a council of the borough consisting of 18 members instead of the 29 now serving, will go to the voters of Atlanta in the general election, December 2.

The new board president has been a member of the board from the third ward since 1921, and served as president from 1921 to 1924.

workers will be "the satisfaction of achievement in a job well done—there is no better pay." He told the teams to point out to Atlantans that they ought to prepare for the peak loads ahead and give freely to the agencies.

Dr. Moor spoke of the Chest campaign as the "greatest religious act in this whole community year—a human and patriotic act." He told the workers "there is no turning back now... we have got to do this job and do it thoroughly and well."

Frank Miller, executive director of the Chest, answered a number of questions concerning the Chest organization and the work done by it. Tuesday night dinner, free, and give the report luncheon meals at special rates, it was announced. Five hundred persons attended the dinner.

MEETING CALLED ON FEE BATTLE
J. P. Wall, chairman of the Atlanta borough democratic committee, Tuesday called a joint meeting of the subcommittee of that body and the Atlanta League of Women Voters to decide just what action should be taken relative to a 12-year-old court battle over about $2,646 held in the custody of the clerk of Fulton county superior court.

The meeting will be held at the city hall Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Harry Greene, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, and a committee of women which she will select, will be urged to attend in order that an amicable adjustment of the matter may take place.

RAIL EXECUTIVES
DISCUSS POLICIES
Executives of the Southern Freight Association, holding a four-day session at the Biltmore hotel, Tuesday discussed important matters of policy and railroad operation.

Charles R. Capra, vice president of the Seaboard Air Line, presided at the morning session. About 70 members, composed of vice presidents of all southeastern railroads, are attending the convention, which will close its sessions Friday.

Revival To Start.
Dr. Robert King, of Pulaski, Va., will begin a series of revival services at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Morningstar Presbyterian church. Rev. Peter Marshall, of Columbia Theological seminary, will be in charge of music. The meetings will continue through Sunday, November 23.

GEORGE T. LEWIS, 78, PASSES AT HOME HERE

Veteran of Railway Mail Service Had Lived Here for 51 Years.

George T. Lewis, 78, retired veteran of the railway mail service and a resident of Atlanta for the past 51 years, died Tuesday night at his home, 512 Langhorn street, S. W., after a brief illness. Services will be conducted at the Moore Memorial Presbyterian church by the Rev. Russell Young. Interment will be in West View with Avtry & Lowndes in charge.

Until his retirement 12 years ago, Mr. Lewis was active in association work and for many years was connected with the railroad Y. M. C. A. He was born in 1852 at Troy, N. Y., and soon after leaving school entered the railway mail service, being transferred to Atlanta four years later. During his 43 years' connection with the service he established a remarkable record, having never lost a day because of illness.

Mr. Lewis was active in church work until his fatal illness. He was twice delegated to be the representative at the Presbyterian general assembly.

He is survived by his widow; three sons, George T. Jr., S. J. and J. H. Lewis; a daughter, Mrs. Charles Henry Adams, of Detroit; seven grandsons and one granddaughter.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., has gone to Palo Alto, Cal., to bring her three children back to Blue Briar cottage, where Mr. Hoover has established residence to recuperate from an illness.

Mrs. Hoover is to return here with the three children, now in the care of her mother, about the first of December.

Now Millions of Adults, too, check Colds

2 WAYS at once!

Mothers were first to appreciate the modern method of treating colds externally, because it avoids the constant "dosing" so upsetting to children's delicate stomachs.

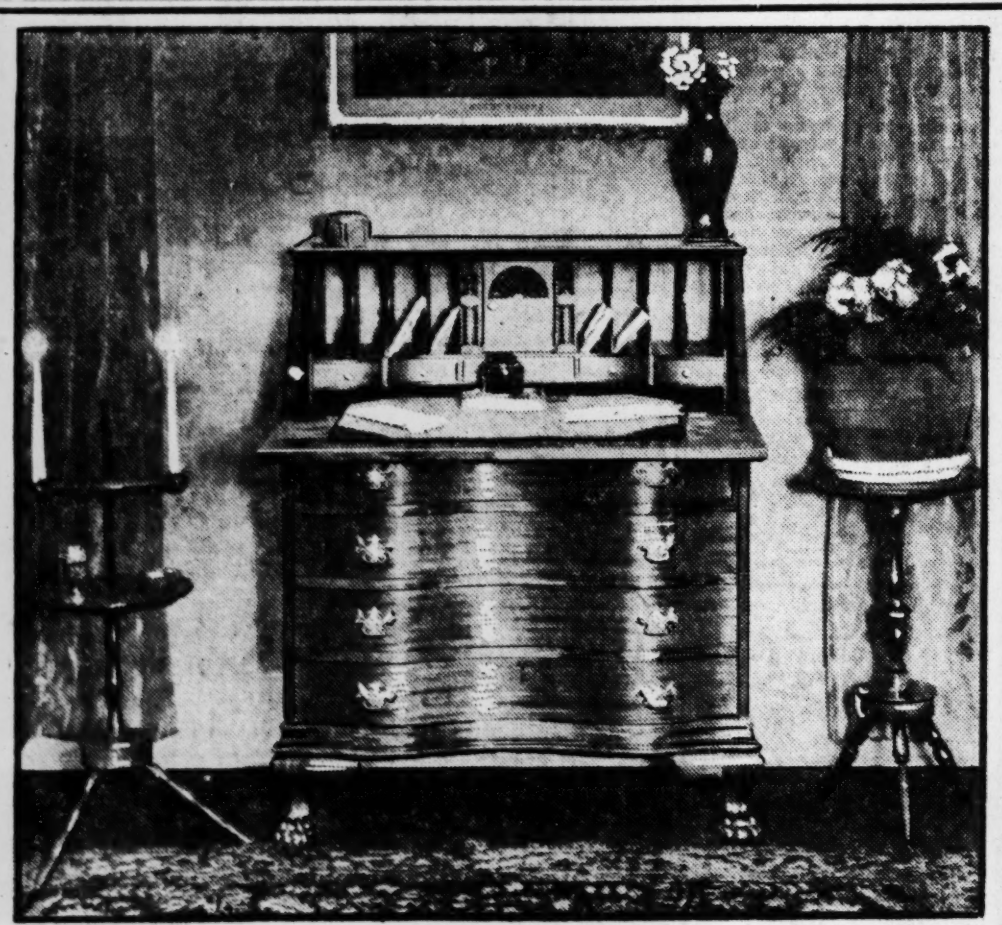

Now millions of adults, too, prefer Vicks for their colds, because, just rubbed on, it brings relief two ways at once:

(1) Its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled direct to the air passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the breathing.

(2) At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, thus helping the inhaled vapors to break up the congestion.

WINGAIT

"LET'S WALK"...

Everyone's saying it! Everyone's doing it! It's smart! It's swanky! It's the vogue that has brought about a new tailored mode—and with it, a sensational development in walking shoes—the Wingait last by I. Miller—a Cuban heel welt shoe last that is utterly amazing in its modish lines and extraordinary ease of action.

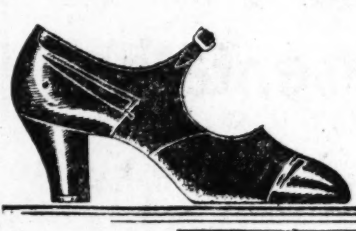

Is it a departure, you ask, for I. Miller to make a welt shoe? Not at all! As a matter of fact, it was with welt shoes that I. Miller originally established his reputation many years ago.

How natural, then, that I. Miller today of all shoemakers should evolve the exact type of walking shoe which women have longed for—which thousands of women have asked for. A shoe which would free them from the shackles of style-shy "orthopedics" and enable them to step out briskly, youthfully, in true I. Miller fashion—with swanky nonchalance. Now active feet can stride with pride, untiringly, throughout the entire day.

Completing the picture I. Miller presents—Hosiery and bags created expressly for the tailored mode and matching or complementing Wingait footwear.

I. MILLER'S THREESOME OF WALKING SHOES

These three models cover every walking shoe need of the modern woman—a type for every foot.

THE STRAP
The ideal slipper for the afternoon caller. Utmost smart for spectator sports.

THE STEP-IN
The youthful type of walking shoe combining the ease of the Oxford with the grace of the opera.

THE OXFORD
The smart about-town shoe with glove-like fit as the arch and instep.

THIS IS WINGAIT WEEK! In every I. Miller shop from coast to coast Wingait Shoes are being featured this week. They're on display in our windows. See them! Step into the store and try on a pair and see for yourself this amazing shoe in which I. Miller has succeeded in combining foot-happiness with grace of line and beauty of conception.

WHY WINGAIT SHOES? First, their extraordinary modishness for walking—modishness never before attained in a Cuban heel welt shoe. Secondly, Wingait lasts are "motion-measured" for the ever-changing dimensions of the foot in motion. Ample room in the ball and arch. Snuggles at heel and instep. To walk in Wingait is to tread on a pillowy cushion!

Atlanta Grocers Confer With Beavers on Bandit Measures

Meeting in a specially-called session at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, members of the Atlanta Retail Food Dealers Association, heard Chief of Police James L. Beavers' recommendations for protective steps to ward off depredations of bandits. In the photograph above are shown the police head (with pencil in hand) talking to leaders of the group of association members who heard him speak on the subject. During his talk Chief Beavers urged the grocers to arm themselves on their property and to "fight it out" whenever they had a "ghost of a show." Staff photo by Bill Mason.

COLUMBUS VETERAN DIES IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11.—(AP)—While the city today was celebrating the 12th anniversary of the signing of the armistice one of those who helped to bring about peace died. The casualty was Marion Schley, Davis, 48, captain, of Columbus, Ga. He was a member of the Second division.

Stomach Ulcers Healed at Home

up men lately have taken anything but money."

R. I. Barge, president of the association, asked Chief Beavers:

"Have you sufficient policemen to cope with the situation?"

"No," replied the chief. "We haven't got as many men as we need, but we'll have to do with those we have. I'm afraid."

"Do you think," pursued Mr. Barge, "that if this association formed a committee and endeavored to persuade council—"

"That would be a good thing," interjected the chief, "for any group of citizens to take an interest in. But I don't think it can result in more men, at least this year. The financial condition of the city is such that it would be out of the question to hire more policemen this year. Perhaps next year, which isn't far off now, something along that line might be done."

In furtherance of the orders given the men of the night watch Monday evening by Captain Grover C. Fain to "shoot to kill" where armed bandits are concerned, members of the special bandit squad Tuesday were issued sawed-off shotguns and extra rounds of ammunition. Captain Fain's instructions were, "Don't bring holdup

Rose, who holds the job, was appointed about nine years ago and, as do all revenue collectors, holds office at the pleasure of the president in power.

Admitted Receiving Money. Dove Monday admitted receiving $500 from J. P. Benson, which the government charges the defendant solicited and received after promising to have Ernest B. Benson, son of J. P., appointed postmaster at College Park. He charged, in a statement issued Monday night, that this money was paid to a personal representative of the postmaster-general in Washington for the use of the republican national committee.

No additional bill will be asked in the new indictment against Dove, District Attorney Hager said Tuesday. He will be held under bond of $500.

RAILROADS LOSE GRAIN RATE FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission order reducing by about $15,000,000 freight rates on grain west of the Mississippi river will go into effect January 1 despite carrier protests and objections of some shipping interests affected.

The commission's original order revising the rates was made effective November 1 but was postponed because of objections until January 1, and has since been the object of a series of protests by western, eastern and southern carriers.

In addition, the rearrangement of grain charges was questioned by representatives of grain producers and grain handling interests at various western points.

The interstate commerce commission has voted to deny the various petitions submitted to it for modification or rehearing in the grain case, an announcement said. "This notice is given in this manner for the early information of all concerned. Formal orders will be entered."

SENATOR DILL SEES CONGRESS FOR PEOPLE

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 11.—(AP)—The next congress "is going to be a congress for the people," said Senator C. C. Dill, democrat, of Washington, here yesterday, "and if the president wants to come along, that will be fine."

"However, in my opinion it won't be a congress that will take orders," he said. "President Hoover must pay attention to the people."

It will be the duty of the democrats "to present a legislative program with particular reference to economic conditions," he said.

"The balanced congress will not fight the president. However, we don't know what is on President Hoover's mind, and therefore can't say to what extent his program will be supported."

VICTIM OF HIT-RUN AUTO NEAR DEATH

Struck by a hit-and-run motorist in East Point early Tuesday morning, Hal A. Rhodes, 52, who for the last ten years has been a carrier for The Constitution, hovered between life and death at Grady hospital Tuesday night while police of East Point, College Park and this city sought clues that would lead to the identity of the driver.

Meanwhile officers of this city were closing in on the trail of the driver of the small roadster stolen from a Vanderbilt University student Saturday afternoon, who late that night, with two other persons as passengers, struck and killed Ralph Collins, 23, a Georgia Tech student, as he was crossing Ponce de Leon avenue on foot a few feet east of Myrtle street. Rhodes, it was reported, was struck as he stepped into the street at East Point to pick up a load of newspapers that had been thrown to him from an interurban street car. An automobile, bound toward Atlanta, struck the man at a fast rate of speed, knocking him many feet into the air. He received a fracture of the skull and other serious injuries.

En route to Grady hospital in an ambulance of the Carmichael Funeral Home, the vehicle crashed into the rear end of the produce truck belonging to L. W. Davis, a farmer living near East Point, overturning the truck, slightly injuring Davis, and badly damaging the ambulance. A second ambulance was called from Hemperly's, which took both Rhodes and Davis on into Grady, where, after treatment Davis was dismissed.

BRAZILIAN RIGHTS DISSOLVED BY VARGAS

All Obligations, Except Those Against Public Interest, To Be Recognized.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 11.—(UP)—Dr. Getulio Vargas, provisional president of Brazil, signed a decree today suspending certain constitutional rights and dissolving the federal and all state congresses and municipal councils.

The decree, anticipated by declarations of policy by the new chief executive, was also signed by members of the revolutionary cabinet.

It was stipulated that the federal and state constitutions would remain in force, for the time being, subject to modifications established in today's or subsequent decrees. Meanwhile a new constitution is being drafted.

Federal intervention in various states not already reorganized by the new regime was outlined and the men to take charge of this work were named. Reorganization of the state

Bandit Kidnaps

Pretty "Red-Head"

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—A pretty red-haired girl, otherwise unidentified, was kidnapped early today by a masked bandit in the secluded section of Queens where the mysterious "3-X" killer committed two murders several months ago.

Joseph Luisi, 30, who brought news of the kidnapping to police, is a taxi driver. Last night was his night off, so he borrowed his brother's sedan and went for a ride.

About midnight Luisi saw the pretty girl and invited her to go riding. Before they got to the point of exchanging names Luisi had been robbed of $7, his sedan and his girl.

governments and installation of men in sympathy with the rebellion which overthrew the regime of Dr. Washington Luis last month will be among the first major projects attempted.

The decree, important because it is the first official declaration of the aims and aspirations of the revolutionary government and the first document setting forth its ideas of procedure, further provided for guarantees of public safety, and created a special tribunal to try political crimes.

The government will recognize obligations and rights, the decree set forth, in connection with contracts and concessions granted by the federal, state and municipal governments, except those believed to be against public interests.

This last clause was regarded as significant, leaving the authorities considerable leeway in future.

Conference Ends.

The Georgia conference at the A. M. E. Zion church was brought to a close Sunday night with comparative few changes made in the appointments of pastors. The Rev. A. M. Goodwin was returned to the Franklin Memorial church, where he has served as pastor for several years. On Monday night Bishop J. W. Wood, of Indianapolis, delivered a sermon at Franklin Memorial church.

Farmers Asked To Curb Use of Credit Despite Increased Demand for Crops

Economists and agriculturists from the United States department of agriculture and extension workers in 12 southeastern states gathered around the table at the Henry Grady hotel studying the crop and credit outlook for 1937, preliminary to a report on farm expectancies next year. On the right, at the main table, are to be seen Eric Englund, associate chief of the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States department of agriculture, and to his right is J. Phil Campbell, director of extension service at the Georgia State College of Agriculture. J. A. Evans, associate chief of extension work in the United States department, with headquarters in Washington, is at the left of Mr. Englund. Staff photo by Bill Mason.

U. S. Experts, Agricultural Leaders Sound Warning at Conference in Atlanta.

The domestic demand for next year's farm products in the south is likely to show an improvement, but the credit outlook for southern farmers appears less favorable than a year ago, economists of the United States department of agriculture and state extension forces decided here Tuesday.

The economists, who also represent the federal farm board, are meeting here in an outlook conference, the first of its kind ever held outside Washington.

Concerning demand for southern agricultural products, the conference adopted a committee report which said the domestic demand would likely improve next year, and be better toward the close of the year than at the beginning.

An improvement in foreign economic conditions and in the foreign demand for southern products also was forecast by the economists by the latter half of 1937.

Industrial Activity Low.

The conference based its predictions on the fact that "industrial activity has fallen about as low as in former major depressions and the period of decline has approximately the same duration as in other major depressions."

The decline in commodity prices has been of "unusual proportions," the report said, and "although the level of raw materials have been affected adversely, the low levels of raw-material prices may be expected to stimulate activity among consumers of those raw materials."

The reduction in the current flow of income into agricultural communities as a result of the low level of farm commodity prices and low crop yields in the drought area has increased the demand of farmers for credit, the committee said.

At the same time has reduced the supply of local funds which will be available for next year's production requirements.

Curtailment in Income.

"The serious curtailment in the 1936 income received by most southern farmers will prevent many from repaying the advances obtained during the 1936 crop season," the report stated.

"It also will prevent the usual seasonal accumulation of cash reserve by farmers who finance their requirements out of their own resources," it stated, "and additional credit will be needed to finance production next year."

The supply of production credit from country banks and merchants will show the greatest reduction in those states seriously affected by the drought, principally Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Oklahoma. A relatively more favorable situation is indicated for most parts in North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Texas."

The economists decided that from present indications "the prices paid the growers of flour-corn tobacco next year are likely to be lower on the average than those being paid for this year's crop."

Rice Acreage.

Rice acreage in the south next year "can probably be maintained at 875,000 acres, the amount grown this year, without depressing prices below the 1930-31 level," the rice committee reported.

The present low prices of sugar "should have a tendency to check the expansion of world sugar production, but the continuation of large production for the past two years in the face of low prices indicates that some time may be required for making any material readjustments that will result in lower production," the sugar report said.

Possible recovery in business conditions, "together with the higher tariff duties now in effect, may result in some improvement in sugar prices to producers, but no substantial improvement can be expected until world demand increases in relation to production."

The bearing acreages of oranges and grapefruit are being increased steadily, the conference reported, and "adequate returns to the growers are dependent upon a continuation of the upward trend in per capita demand."

The outlook for the peach industry for the next five years is generally favorable, another report stated. Preliminary estimates indicate that the commercial strawberry acreage for the harvest of 1937 will be "materially lower than the acreage harvested this year," the strawberry report said.

COLORED BAPTISTS
HEAR REV. THOMAS

Rev. E. G. Thomas, pastor of the First African Baptist church, of Macon, delivered the principal sermon at the general missionary Baptist convention, colored, at noon Tuesday, selecting as his text Isaiah 62:10, on the subject, "God's Orders to the Leaders of a Struggling People."

The following committees were appointed: Finance, Dr. J. T. Johnson, chairman; enrollment, Rev. T. A. Lomax, chairman; state of the country, Dr. John Hope, chairman.

At 5:30 p. m. Dr. J. M. Nabrit delivered his annual message, which was a strong appeal to the younger pastors to consecrate their lives to the Master's service. He emphasized Baptist traditions and the cause of missions and education. Revs. W. W. Winterspool, C. H. Pickett, E. G. Thomas and A. D. Williams conducted an interesting discussion of the message.

The Pastors' Aid Club of the Mount Olive church presented Dr. Nabrit with a substantial purse in appreciation of his nine-year service as pastor.

Dr. J. F. Brooks, of Columbus, preached the educational sermon at 8 o'clock, choosing for his text 1 Cor. 2:7, subject, "Christianity, the Wisdom of God in a Mystery."

Admitted 'Sheik' Divorces 29 Wives In Last 23 Years

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Norman Arthur Lee Flood, convicted bigamist, told police today he had married and divorced 29 women during the last 23 years.

"And sweethearts? I figure I've had about 400 sweethearts," he said.

"Ever since I was 17 years old I've had a way with the women," Flood said. "I soon learned if you treated a woman as you would a square-shooting man, the woman will fall for you every time."

"Anyway, I've always found the plan to work out nicely. Yes, I married them all and divorced them all. I wouldn't be in this mess today if I hadn't slipped up on that last marriage. I thought I was 1, I guess I wasn't."

Flood was sentenced to serve from one to ten years in San Quentin prison last week.

CANNON ILLNESS
DELAYS INQUIRY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 11.—(UP)—Inquiry into latest charges filed against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist church, south, scheduled to begin tomorrow, November 12, has been postponed because of the bishop's confinement in a Washington hospital.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, chairman of the college of bishops, made the announcement in the Christian Advocate, official organ of the Southern Methodist church.

"I am not disposed to give announcements regarding the Cannon case to the secular press," Bishop Ainsworth said today, in referring to the college of bishops' announcement in the church publication.

23,188 DRY CASES ON U. S. DOCKETS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Enforcement of the national prohibition laws during the month of October resulted in the arrest of 4,948 persons, making a total of 22,127 arrests for that cause since last July 1.

Figures made public by the prohibition bureau of the department of justice today showed that at the end of October there were 23,188 criminal prohibition cases pending while during the month 407 persons were convicted, 5,883 pleaded guilty and 1,186 were acquitted or their cases dismissed.

The statement said that since the start of the fiscal year last July 925 persons had been convicted, 12,657 had pleaded guilty and 2,262 had been acquitted or their cases dismissed.

During the month the average of jail sentences imposed was 206 days and the average fine was $125. The total jail sentences for the month amounted to 733,422 days and the fines to $576,938. Since last July 1 the jail sentences have totaled 1,499,146 days and the fines have aggregated $1,383,358.

VETS HEAR ROOSEVELT ON PEACE-TIME NEEDS

Objectives Include Power Distribution at Lowest Cost.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, speaking at Armistice Day exercises of the Massachusetts Veterans of Foreign Wars, tonight urged public support for what he termed a war to bring about development and distribution of public utilities at lowest possible cost.

Other peace-time objectives for which Governor Roosevelt appealed were movements to reduce crime, to provide care for the aged and unfortunate and to safeguard public health and safety.

Regarding public utilities, he said, "Today in this field of war two armies are drawn up—one seeking to break down the distinctions between the utilities and other forms of industry, seeking to free the utilities from all limitations of profit for personal gain—and on the other side, that more modern army which seeks the development and distribution of those utilities at lowest cost for the primary good of the great mass of the people who must have them if they are to maintain the standards of their neighbors and of the civilization of today."

If the electricity and power and telephones in our homes, if the transportation which take us to and from our vacations, have the element of public necessity, then they must not be made the instruments of unreasonable profit to private individuals who numerically represent only a very small percentage of the users of the service.

"This particular war will continue without question until general recognition is accorded to the fundamental principle that public service is a public trust." Considering how recently this conflict has begun, we have made, I think, greater progress than along the entire public battle front. Read the general verdict of the public press that events of only a few days past have shown emphatically in all parts of the country, that the people as a whole are determined to insist that the control of our government be placed in the hands of those who believe in the proper and fair regulation and ordering of our public utilities.

He advocated new methods in the treatment of criminals, declaring that punishment, while possibly a deterrent, was not a cure for crime.

Accomplishments throughout the country in provision for the aid of the aged were praised by Mr. Roosevelt. He cited the discarding of the theory of "survival of the fittest" and strides made in behalf of public health and safety but added "we are making steady progress, yet we have not pierced the final line of defense."

The governor made a brief reference to unemployment, which he said the country had only last year realized to be a great problem.

"If we can give to this problem the same leadership and brains that were given to others we will make the events of the past year an impossibility in the years to come."

Nobles of Yaarab Temple and their families will test the capacity of Fox theater at 11 performances given Thursday. Under the terms of its lease of the big auditorium, Yaarab Temple reserved the use of the auditorium for six days in each year. On Thursday the regular Fox performances will be given and regular prices charged, but Yaarab Temple will receive all money taken in, minus a small overhead.

State supreme court Tuesday held that the Georgia chain store tax applies only to firms operating more than five stores, and reversed the Fulton superior court in dismissing a petition for injunction against collection of the tax. The court did not rule in constitutionality of the chain store act.

Legal steps to determine whether the state highway department has the right to construct roads through towns and cities of more than 2,500 population have been taken in the Clarke county superior court. J. W. Barnett, chairman of the state highway department announced Tuesday. Glenn Green, John A. Hauser and William Wright have filed a petition for injunction against completion of grading a strip of highway through the town of Windsor.

John O. Owens Tuesday was indicted by the Fulton grand jury on a charge of larceny after trust of $250 from William D. Porterfield, of 430 Washington, S. W., in November, 1929. The case is said to involve collection by Owens of money on an insurance policy left by an old servant of Porterfield's family, and alleged refusal to pay it over.

Harry Brown, Fulton agricultural agent, Tuesday said that Austrian winter peas are growing in popularity in this county as a cover crop to be turned over in the spring so as to build up the soil.

Fulton county will lay a six-inch water main on Montgomery Ferry road from Boulevard to Piedmont, assessing a tap cost of $100 per residence lot, provided this is satisfactory.

W. W. Gaines, who Tuesday was elected president of the Atlanta Board of Education, succeeding Dr. McIntosh Burns, resigned.

SOUTHERN OIL STORES OPENS STATION HERE

Southern Oil Stores, Inc., operators of an extensive chain of filling stations throughout the south, has entered Atlanta, locating at 620 Whitehall street, S. W., with I. M. Green in charge.

The company features Dixie Vim gasoline and Pennsylvania and Texas motor oils. The management says that the company is bringing a new kind of gasoline service to Atlanta, using the slogan, "from tank car to car tank."

Operations of the company extend well over the south. Among the cities where it has already established service stations are: Birmingham, Ala.; Columbus, Ga.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Macon, Ga.; Meridian, Miss.; Mobile and Montgomery, Ala.; and Nashville, Tennessee.

OFFICER INDICTED ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Police Officer G. A. Jenkins, who is under suspension from the force for an alleged "off-day prank," Tuesday was indicted by the Fulton county grand jury on a robbery charge.

The true bill charges Jenkins with robbing J. D. Jones, of 1213 Niles avenue, of $180 on October 26. At the solicitor-general's office it was said that Jones complained that Jenkins, apparently drinking, had called him out into the hall from a hotel room, and had ordered him, at the point of a pistol, to dance. Jones charged that Jenkins took $180 in cash and some papers, but that the $180 later was returned to him.

JACKSONVILLE BURIAL FOR WRIGLEY TODAY

Funeral services will be conducted this morning at Jacksonville for Joseph H. Wrigley, 74, one of the founders of the Wrigley Engraving Company, and for 15 years head of the stereotyping department of The Constitution, who died at his home in the Florida city Monday.

Mr. Wrigley, who founded the Wrigley company in association with his two brothers, the late John T. and W. H. Wrigley, later founded a similar concern in Jacksonville, which now is being operated by his son, Eugene J. Wrigley.

Abolition of School Children Fee Sought

Abolition of about $150,000 worth of fees collected from the 60,000-old school children of Atlanta will be sought by a special committee of the Atlanta board of education in formation of the new school budget.

Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson, E. P. Swain and William C. State compose the committee. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, other administrative officials and board members charged that funds be found to eliminate the fees in making up the 1937 budget, which Raymond R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, is compiling.

A CROSS-EYED CRITIC.

There are some folk in the world to whom any feeling of satisfaction is painful. If they cannot find a fly in the ointment, or a spider in their dumping, or a loose tooth in the mouth of their gift horse, they are most unhappy.

The esteemed Washington Post, assumed organ of the Hoover administration, is frankly put out of humor by the declaration of the democratic leaders that their party in congress will not pursue an obstructive policy, but will co-operate with the president and the republicans in measures wisely designed to serve the whole people and restore their prosperity.

The esteemed Post says: "The democratic manifesto lacks convincing force. Industry knows that reckless agitators are about to make trouble in congress, and that the democrats signing the 'reassurance manifesto' have no control over the democrats in congress, to say nothing of the insurgents." It goes so far as to claim that "every industry entitled to protection against dangerous foreign competition will be not only alarmed, but paralyzed, so that it will not dare to build up its business by enlarging factories or employing more workmen," and that "the democratic statement is a declaration of war against American industry."

How a republican editor can "get that way" puzzles us intriguingly. We know the gentry is capable of many absurdities and extravagances, but these ebulliences from the generally reputed sober Post certainly do beat the Dutch.

When men of influence in the democratic party, such as Cox, Davis, Smith, Robinson and Raskob tell the country that their party is set for sane and progressive non-partisan legislation to serve the vital interests of agriculture, industry and labor, the country will believe them and the rank and file of the party will stand to their pledge. And there is ample time between now and December a year hence for the esteemed Post to recover from its strabismus and resume its accustomed mental poise.

MODERNIZING JUSTICE.

A recent and remarkable development in government is the creation in about one-third of the states of "judicial councils" as a distinct branch of state administration. The new order began in Ohio where the first judicial council was set up in 1923. The others have been created since upon the Ohio pattern.

The work of the judicial council is to investigate the courts, their procedures, character and extent of cases brought before the courts in normal periods, the rules governing the courts, the costs of trying cases, and the reasons for delays and the uncertainty of reaching decisions. The judicial council, in some states, is vested with control of such matters for the purpose of reforming them, and also has the function of advising the legislature in the interest of new or amendatory enactments to make the course of justice speedy and certain.

In Ohio, Kansas, California, Connecticut and Massachusetts distinct improvements and economies in administering justice, whether civil or criminal, have resulted from the work of the judicial councils. Experience with them has led high jurists and American bar leaders to say that they "give promise to have even greater constructive influence in the judicial department of government than any other agency since the formation of the American constitution."

The work of a judicial council calls upon the experience and wisdom of lawyers, legislators and laymen to the end that the greatest object of all government—the doing of justice—may be obtained by the people with promptness and impartiality. It is a new device of government that may well attract the attention and study of the lawyers and legislators of Georgia.

THE NEEDY AT OUR DOORS.

Unemployment, accompanied by increasing cold weather, is flooding missions, police stations and jails with penniless men who need food and shelter. Some of the missions in the nation's capital are caring for such persons by the hundreds nightly and in some cities so many are begging for lodging and breakfast that the prison rations have had to be cut down to make available food money go as far as possible.

We are likely to have some such conditions imposed upon us here in Atlanta as the migration toward Florida and other mild winter areas draw more than the usual quota in those directions during months ahead. The procession must be kept moving, but while it necessarily halts with us, our official and charity agencies will be called upon for extra humane services.

These things must be taken into account by our comfortable citizens. We cannot trust ourselves to be individually importuned for bread and shelter. We have an organized agency in the Community Chest that can adequately and justly deal with whatever situation these needy may impose upon us, provided we are wise and protective enough to give it the needed support. It is the most competent warden for our combined charities.

The people of this community have the wealth in both large and small measures that fully enable them to fill the Community Chest requisitions without self-stint or any actual privation. Yet they are not asked to do more than their known easy ability. Nearly every dollar paid into the Community Chest is an investment in self-protection as well as in obligatory humanity. The stranger in our gates, a hungry wayfarer, may get a few crumbs from our opulent table, but mostly will be doing the unheavenly act of "caring for our own" with Christian kindness. So let's fill up the Chest promptly and generously.

THE CASE OF BRAZIL.

Recognition by this government of the de facto government in Brazil may call forth academic questions from those who believe that no government is de jure unless instituted by regular constitutional methods where there is an existing constitution.

But what else could this government do than to recognize a government acquiesced in by the people of Brazil? Governments are the creatures and users of force. This country was liberated by force and while using that emancipating force by the instruments of war appealed for recognition by European established powers. And not only for recognition, but for money and military aid.

It is no business of ours to judge by whom and how another independent people shall be governed. That is their business. We act toward any government according as our feelings and interests argue. President Wilson refused to recognize a Mexican administration obtaining power by assassination. We are refusing recognition to the so-called Russian cabal for reasons entirely within our right, but we are not demanding that the Russian people shall repudiate and overthrow it.

The president has full constitutional authority to negotiate our diplomatic relations and our treaty co-operations. Unless in some case he violates the deep convictions of our people, or manifestly jeopardizes their safety and welfare, it is our custom to acquiesce in his decisions. We can discern no reason why, in this case of Brazil, his action recognizing the Vargas government should be criticized or deplored.

The codfish of Massachusetts are enjoying the great sensation of having a democratic governor and two democratic senators at the same time.

President Hoover now has the chance of the century to be a real president "of, by and for the people."

Tuttle's wet bathing suit was much too short. The people of New York said "tut" to him by a huge majority.

The nation can now enjoy again the spectacle of an unbroken "Solid South."

It is to be hoped that Chief Beavers' bandit chasers will work on the job like beavers.

And still the irresponsibles at the wheel spin merrily around corners—and keep the ambulances busy.

Granny Fess is demanding of his Ohio folks, who threw that brick!

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Describing America.

For several years French writers, among them some very prominent figures, have attempted to give the world a picture of America. The number of books, magazine articles and newspaper serials on the subject would fill a respectable library indeed. There have been profound and dull analyses of the economic situation, bewildering studies of American mass psychology and piles of flimsy anecdotal descriptions of our cities and our habits. This tremendous output shows one thing to be certain: the French reading public must entertain a keen curiosity on the subject of America, for nearly all the books and serials are not only read, but are having an unusually good sale.

"The point has been reached now," remarks a Parisian chronicler, "where commentators on America begin to make their appearance." The latest commentator feels that the mass of books on America has not served to make the average Frenchman get a correct idea of Uncle Sam. He probably is right. If the average Frenchman has read but a tenth of the output, which he hasn't, of course, his idea of America must have become a chaotic jumble of the kind that a man may see when his temperature goes soaring up. The trouble is that any attempt to depict America in a comprehensive view is an impossibility. The scene is too vast. The observer can tackle some phase of it and even one phase may escape definition and delineation.

An American writer in Paris who had been invited to give the government to come and see, and write, of course, after much pondering turned down the invitation on the ground that he could not hope to begin a descriptive discussion of life in that vast country. The same applies to America. Either only a certain department of life or several departments, may be studied, or the writer must simply confine himself to give a true and complete picture of his own experience on a journey of exploration. To understand American life it is necessary to enter into the rhythm of the country, to become part of it, still and watch life flowing by is not sufficient. To build up a picture of America based upon interviews with gangsters and college presidents, in several foreign observers recently attempted, results in a false and distorted scene. It is as if one sees a picture of a city through a series of mirrors on Coney Island.

Popular Acclaim.

The reception which Paris accorded Costes and Bellonte surpassed anything of the kind in human memory. Even the school children had been taught to adore the heroes of the war. The president, M. Jules Ferry, paid a call at Hugo's home. Since that day all the acclamations of the people of Paris have been reserved to visiting monarchs and political personages. There was a Carpenter came back from America, and also when Chaplin visited France for the first time. Paris has not known anything like the popular acclaim for a first time, for a poet or a savant for 50 years. The city's admiration goes out to aviators, audacious men of action, who have conquered space and matter. It is true, of course, that there has been no second Victor Hugo since that time, and even if there had been, it is doubtful if the new Paris would go out of its way to salute him.

Each day before beginning work apply to the skin of hands and arms a little lanolin or lanolin and castor oil, half and half. This makes a fairly good protective substance for the natural sebum or skin oil.

Each day at the close of work, scrub up, using the sand-wood soap cleanser and a soft scrub brush, rinse and dry the skin, and then apply another few drops of the lanolin-castor oil.

For the skin rash produced by inks, the United States public health service recommends repeated painting with the following paint: Zinc oxide (calcium and silicate of zinc), pulverized and passed through a 100-mesh sieve, 3 parts. Glycerine, 4 parts. Water, 61.2 parts.

Melt this in the inner pan of a double boiler. The outer pan should be filled with water and heated over the fire or gas stove.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL.

The Coming Day When Pap-Sucking Counties Will Be Choked Off.

The county government system in Georgia has broken down of its own weight and is now one of the most ragged and ineffective to be found in any state of the Union.

It is an inheritance from the old times, operative even still in a modern republic. The county government system, which is the paramount power, wrested from the people, is a relic of the past. It is a relic of the past, a relic of the past, a relic of the past.

It was efficient enough in early Georgia when the people were few and the counties were few and large in area, and the business of local government was easily and democratically manageable. But the state has outgrown so simple and economic a system.

Friction of Expansion and Contraction. In 1833 the state has expanded from a dozen great counties covering nearly a third of the state to 161 counties, some of which are not greatly larger than a horse blanket.

We have unwisely expanded the number of counties, contracted their territory, supplied each with a full-fledged county government, reduced their revenue abilities and enlarged the salary and fee costs of the county government.

With what benefit? Well, if degrading 133 counties into "pauper counties," dependent largely upon state support, can be called a public benefit, then Georgia is the most benefited state in the Union except Texas. It is a peculiar benefit, a benefit which is not a benefit.

County Reduction Must Come. These facts are pressing more strongly upon the taxpayers of the state every year. The state is going to revolt against the system and enforce a radical change.

Not Ashamed of Their Beggary. One would think that the intelligent, self-respecting majority in any county would be ashamed to be seen standing constantly at the door of the state treasury with tin cups held out for state charity.

What Will You Do About It? It is all seemingly funny to the pauper county man to ask "What will you do about it?" The answer is that it is absolutely contrary to the constitution of the state to appropriate the state's money, directly or indirectly, to the support of a county government per se.

The legislature violates the constitution and the legislative oath in every instance when it allocates state money to a county for any other than a plain state function.

Furthermore, the county officers who use allocated state taxes for other than road purposes are subject to indictment therefore and an honest judge would sentence them to the chain gang.

The need of Georgia is emphatically for honest government, soundly and economically. And most of the counties of the state do not have such governments now.

WILMINGTON DUPONT DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Former Senator and Financial Leader Passes at Wilmington.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Thomas Coleman Du Pont, former United States senator, died at his home here today after an illness of several years with a throat ailment. Mr. Du Pont, until two weeks ago had resided at his country home near Cambridge, Md. He was 87 years old.

Mr. Du Pont served as president of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. from 1902 until 1905. He was appointed United States senator by Governor William D. Denney in July, 1921, to fill a vacancy until November, 1922. He was defeated for election to the senate in 1922 but was elected in 1924, resigning about a year ago because of failing health.

Mr. Du Pont was a member of the republican national committee from 1908 to 1920 and was a former chairman of the republican state committee of Delaware. In early life he was extensively interested in coal and iron mining in Kentucky and in the construction and management of street railway properties.

MARCUS DALY, ONLY SON OF FORMER DELAWARE SENATOR, DIES. NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Marcus Daly, Jr., son of one of the early west's most picturesque figures, is dead.

An attack of heart disease yesterday while he was hunting among the Virginia capes was fatal to the death of the late pioneer who founded the Anacosta Copper Company. He was 48 years old.

Mr. Daly went south with an associate, apparently in good health. Last night his family received news of his sudden death. His body was to arrive at the Daly residence in New York today.

The financier-sportsman is survived by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Evans Daly; his widow, a son, Marcus Daly III, and two sisters, Mrs. James W. Gerard, wife of the former American ambassador to Germany, and Countess Antonia Sigary, of Hungary.

He was born in Butte, Mont., in 1862 and was graduated from Yale in 1884.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN GEORGETOWN, DEL., DIES. GEORGETOWN, Del., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Dr. Caleb Rodney Layton, former congressman, secretary of state of Delaware and auditor in the state department at Washington, died today after a long illness. He was 70.

Dr. Layton was active in republican politics from early manhood. He was a member of the sixtieth and sixty-seventh congresses. From 1891 to 1903 he was editor of the "Georgetown News," a weekly newspaper here.

Dr. Layton was born at Frankford, Del., and was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania medical school. Dr. Layton's second wife, who was Miss Fannie Herrington, of Dover, survives.

DR. MARTIN LAW SUCCEEDS IN WEST. SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Dr. Martin Law, for many years pastor of Episcopal church in the east, died here last night of heart disease. He was 63 years old.

For 25 years Dr. Law was rector of St. Paul's church at Newmarket, N. H. Previously he had been rector at Holy Trinity church, New York city, under Dr. Walpole W. He is survived by his widow; a son, and a daughter and a sister, Mrs. Winifred Neff, of Omaha, Neb.

HENRY PRATT DIES IN FLORIDA IN 77TH YEAR. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Henry Pratt, 77 years old, died here today after a long illness. He was born in Massachusetts.

activities and espionage, the punishment for any of which is death. Today's Moscow newspapers devoted many pages to the indictment and confessions, with editorials, the general tenor of which was that this alleged plot, like others in the past, was "instigated and financed by foreign powers."

"Capitalist nations," one editorial declared, "will never abandon their evil designs upon the soviet republic." Others saw in the new charges a warning that Russia must strengthen her defenses against invasion.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Government representatives today expressed consternation at dispatches from Moscow saying that agents of former Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand had been acting in concert with Russia charged with treasonous activities against the soviet union, declaring that such allegations were utterly without foundation.

Authorized quarters it was said that Foreign Minister Briand had no connection whatever with any groups of Russian agitators.

So far as former Premier Poincare was concerned, it was pointed out that he is no longer in power and that it was out of the question that he was involved in any such affair.

POINCARE INDIGNANT AT RUSSIAN CHARGES. PARIS, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Charges originating in Moscow that French officials had conspired with Russian malefactors toward a war of intervention in the soviet union were met today with a few lines in the French press.

The reception among individuals varied widely. Raymond Poincare, former premier, angrily and firmly denied that he had been a participant in the alleged plot. He told the report is completely idiotic.

"It is a pure invention. I deny the charges categorically. I never have heard of any plot or received anti-soviet emissaries."

"To my knowledge there has never been any talk of a plan of armed intervention in Russia."

NO PLOT IN ENGLAND. LONDON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Official circles here were mildly amused today at news from Moscow that the soviet press was carrying "details" of a plot in which prominent Britishers, presumably with the knowledge of the British government, were engaged to overthrow the soviet regime.

The names of Sir Henry Detering, Colonel Lawrence, Lord Churchill, Sir Philip Vickers and other were mentioned in connection with the Moscow conspiracy, but none of these was available for comment tonight.

There was even some doubt as to the identity of the British "hold-overs" for while "Lord Churchill" presumably meant Winston Churchill, and the "Director Simon," who also is named, was taken to mean Sir John Simon, neither of these has been directly connected with Russian affairs.

Sir Philip Vickers is so thoroughly discredited as to defy recognition, it was asserted, and as for Colonel Lawrence, if that name is taken to mean the "Lawrence of Arabia," army officer who was picked along with the soviet for his duties as "Aircraftman Sha," if he really were engaged in so many plots in so many places as Moscow regularly suggests.

Sir Henry Detering, an internationally known oil magnate, laughed heartily tonight when he was informed that he was accused of conspiring against the bolshevik regime.

LOUISIANIAN KILLED. SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Jules J. Raley, 50-year-old farmer residing near Minden, La., was killed almost instantly today and three other persons were injured when Raley's automobile ran off the road at Filmore, Bossier parish, while the car was passing another automobile.

Miss Virginia Raley, his daughter; H. J. Hefflin, president of the Webster parish police jury and W. A. Bagwell, a hitch-hiker from Colorado, who was picked along with the others were those hurt. The three will recover.

SUPERVISORS NAMED. HAVANA, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The government today appointed military supervisors for each of the six Cuban provinces as a safeguard against such disturbances as took place at Santiago yesterday when a student was killed and several were wounded in a clash with the police.

FLORIDIAN DIES BY GAS. MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 11.—(AP)—John Charles Lee, 67, of Belton, died of asphyxiation in his home here today after he apparently had taken his own life.

CITY EDITOR RETIRES. ROME, N. Y., Nov. 11.—(AP)—For the first time in 52 years, Wooster, Ohio, Jenks, 79, city editor of the Rome Daily Sentinel, retired from active service today, having retired from active service in 1918.

DEAN OF U. S. PRINTERS. PEKIN, Ill., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Colonel William Henry Bates, 91, a Civil War veteran, believed here to be the oldest active printer in the United States, died at his home today after a paralytic stroke.

Colonel Bates at various times owned and published weekly and daily papers in Pekin.

Member of Company C, eighth Missouri infantry, he issued the first union half-sheet newspaper in the Confederacy, the Star-Spanghel Banner, published at Mexico, Mo., in 1861. He was one of the founders of the Union League, organized to counteract activities of the Knights of the Golden Circle (Confederate) during and after the Civil War.

Trains Kill One. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Tony Felice, 16, was killed and his father, Frank, possibly fatally injured today when their automobile was struck by the Coaster, northbound Southern Pacific passenger train, near Gilroy.

Tax Committee To Consider Lutz Revenue Report Friday

Directors of Body Will Give Principal Attention to Survey Made by Princeton Expert.

Consideration of the recent report of Dr. Harley L. Lutz, Princeton economist, to Governor L. C. Hardman on Georgia's revenue and taxation problems, will be the principal business before the meeting of the board of directors of the Georgia Tax Revision Association here Friday.

Several other matters are scheduled to come up at the meeting. Ernest Camp, secretary, said Tuesday, but the Lutz report will get chief attention. The Princeton expert was employed by the governor and the tax revision association and his report proposes a series of revolutionary legislative changes and urges the adoption of a new constitution for Georgia.

"The membership of the association is giving the Lutz report careful study, but the organization is in no way committed to it or any of its recommendations, or to any other particular plan or program," Mr. Camp said.

"An interesting feature in connection with the association is the suggestion coming from some of its leaders that it include with its program for fiscal reform an effort for the state's upbuilding and development."

The Georgia Tax Revision Association was organized at a statewide conference of business, professional and agricultural leaders held at Macon August 5. Miller S. Bell, well-known Macon banker, was elected president, and Ernest Camp, Monroe newspaper man, secretary. Orville A. Park, Macon lawyer and tax authority, later was chosen as special counsel. A board of 50 directors was named, and the membership was distributed not only by geographical location, but according to the various interests the organization was to serve. Outstanding leaders in business, industry and the professions are included.

At the organization meeting a declaration of principles was adopted which pledged the association's aid in securing a complete and thorough survey of the tax and fiscal system of the state, in promoting adequate and equitable tax laws, devising an efficient budget system and control of public expenditures, and in evolving a plan by which the state's fiscal affairs might be conducted in accordance with the best business methods.

substitutes for beer, whether such substitutes are intoxicating or entirely non-alcoholic.

And although the appellate definition of illegal beverages was made in a case involving possession by a 75-year-old Floyd county citizen of four bottles of home brew—which is commonly known to be above the one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content prescribed by the federal dry statute—its phraseology constituted such a clear-cut interpretation that officials who for years have prosecuted liquor law violators admitted Tuesday that it embraces illegal sale or possession of imitation beers.

All of which means, it was said, that the common 15-cent-a-bottle substitute beers, as well as the "light" and "dark" imitation beverages sold in any number of buffets, drink stands, pool rooms and cafes violate the letter of the 1915 bone-dry act.

Decision of Court.
The decision of the court of appeals relative to what may not legally be kept in the home read as follows: "It is unlawful in Georgia to have the following described liquors or beverages, whether or not alcoholic or intoxicating: "All malted, fermented or brewed liquors of any name or description manufactured from malt, wholly or in part, such as beer, lager beer, near-beer, porter, ale and all brewed or fermented liquors and beverages in which maltose is a substantial ingredient and all liquors, beverages or drinks made in imitation of or as a substitute for beer, ale, wine or whiskey or other alcoholic or spirited liquors or malt liquors, and including those liquors or beverages commonly known and called near-beer."

Anyone having such beverages, the court held in the decision of Pierce Watters, the aged Floyd county citizen who was sentenced to serve 12 months in the chain gang, is subject to arrest as for a misdemeanor.

15-Cent 'Beer' Outlawed.
Declining to permit use of his name, one veteran prosecutor Tuesday said that in his mind there existed not the shadow of a doubt but that the provision of the bone-dry act of 1915 and the subsequent act of 1917 made it illegal to sell or possess the commonly recognized, trade-marked imitation beers that retail for 15 cents a bottle in most instances, the "light" and "dark" substitute beer that is sold daily over the counter of scores of Atlanta lunch rooms and buffets.

This official pointed out that though there is no legal doubt that sale and possession of these well-known brands of imitation beer are technical violations of the state prohibition laws, prosecutors generally have adopted a "reasonable" policy, being guided largely by the effect of such beverages on the consumer.

"For instance," he pointed out, "if there is a lunch stand or other place dispensing this substitute beer, although it may not contain any alcohol at all or be in the least intoxicating, that is carrying a side line of home-brew or other beverages with a 'kick' and the officers have not been able to get sufficient evidence to make an arrest otherwise, then it is within the province of officers to base an arrest on the technical violation of the law as represented by the entirely non-alcoholic imitation beer."

Written by Broyles.

The decision in the Watters case was written by Chief Justice Broyles and concurred in by Associate Justices Bloodworth, Justice Luke, who wrote the unanimous opinion for the court in October which held that "this court cannot take judicial cognizance that home brew is one of the prohibited beverages mentioned in the indictment."

TEMPORARY ALIMONY GIVEN MRS. OLDKNOW

DECATUR, Ga., Nov. 11.—Judge John B. Hutchison, of DeKalb superior court, on Tuesday morning handed down his decision in the case of William H. Oldknow vs. Olive Mae Oldknow, of Atlanta, involving temporary alimony in a pending suit for divorce between the parties.

Taking of evidence and hearing the testimony in the case has consumed several weeks in Atlanta and Decatur, final arguments having been delivered by the attorneys for both sides in Decatur last week.

Judge Hutchison's order allows Mrs. Olive Mae Oldknow, as temporary alimony, the sum of $700 a month, from the date of the filing of the suit, May 7, 1930, to the date of the judgment and until final verdict and decree.

Mrs. Oldknow was represented by Howell, Heyman & Boldz and her husband was represented by Jones, Evans, Powers & Jones, both well known law firms of Atlanta.

CLEVELAND 'PEP MAN' ENDS LECTURE COURSE

"Personality will bring you thousands of dollars together with thousands of friends," Howard J. Wischaupt, the "Pep man" of Cleveland, Ohio, Mr. Wischaupt Tuesday night in closing a series of four lectures in the auditorium of the Wesley Memorial church.

The lectures were made available to the people of Atlanta through the courtesy of The Atlanta Constitution and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and many prominent businessmen as well as sales people took advantage of the opportunity to attend the entire series.

Tonight Mr. Wischaupt will open an institute at the Chamber of Commerce offering instructions to aid people in their life and work. The institute will continue through Saturday, meeting each night at 9 o'clock, and from the interest that has been manifested in his lectures it is expected that the classes will have a large enrollment.

Crowds have increased nightly at the lectures and despite inclement weather and otherwise unfavorable conditions for lectures of such a character. The final night brought out the largest crowd of the series and a large portion of them had attended regularly.

Mr. Wischaupt spoke on "Personality" in his lecture and made a number of points of development. He was introduced by Herbert Porter, advertising director of The Constitution. Mr. Porter expressed pleasure at the Constitution's having a part in offering the lectures to the people of Atlanta and expressed appreciation also for the response they had met.

Five rules cited by Mr. Wischaupt to acquire and develop personality were:

1. Get up when you wake up and wake up when you get up.
2. Smile when you get up.
3. Say something nice to your wife when you come home.
4. Walk part of the way to work or breathe thoughtfully when driving to town.
5. Bring joy into your office or your store.

Mr. Wischaupt warned against frightening or discouraging a child or young person. This was the way a lot of personality was killed, he said. "If a person wants anything bad enough, the whole world cannot keep him from getting it," the speaker declared, "and you'll never get anywhere unless you start."

As to the condition of business in Atlanta, Mr. Wischaupt pointed to the money that was being spent here for amusement. He referred to the football game Saturday as bringing a $30,000 gate and to the fact Tuesday afternoon as having a $30,000 gate, to say nothing of what the theaters were doing. "So," he told the audience, "there is no excuse for you to talk about collections."

Mr. Wischaupt said in conclusion that the institute which starts tonight would prove of great benefit in many ways to those who attended. Several of the leading business establishments of Atlanta have signified their intention of having selected employees attend the course.

FORMER CAROLINA GIRL HURT IN WASHINGTON
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(P)—Five Western High school students were injured, one perhaps fatally, yesterday when their automobile crashed into a tree on Connecticut avenue.

Elizabeth Johnson, 15, suffered a fractured skull and severe lacerations. The others injured were Mary Elizabeth Keeler, 17; Sarah McKay, 16; Harry B. Skillman, Jr., 16, and Mary Barbee, 16. The latter is the daughter of David Rankin Barbee, Washington newspaperman and a former managing editor of The Asheville (N. C.) Citizen. Mrs. Barbee is in a hospital recovering from an operation.

Skillman was driving the automobile, and it was said he swerved the machine to avoid striking a child.

TENNESSEE BOY TO DIE OF ACCIDENTAL WOUND
ETOWAH, Tenn., Nov. 11.—(P)—With the side of his head crushed by an accidental shotgun discharge, Lawrence Beasley, 19-year-old youth, was the only survivor of a party which was fully conscious all day Monday.

Physicians state that there is no hope for his recovery despite the amazing vitality shown by the young victim.

HEADACHES and other pains

Stopped in 3 minutes

When one of these sick, nervous headaches comes and you want three-minute relief, go to any drug store or soda fountain and ask for a package or dose of "B-C" (10c and 25c packages) the wonderful new preparation of a North Carolina druggist that is guaranteed safe and speedy, without depression or bad after effects.

"B-C" relieves any kind of a headache, sciatic, neuralgic or rheumatic pain, because it contains several ingredients that function together for the relief of pain, regardless of its origin. The "B-C" formula is one of the most important medical discoveries of the modern age, accomplishing in a few minutes what no one drug formula can do under 12 to 24 hours.

Dean of England's Printers Visits City on Good-Will Tour

ART STILL ONE OF WORLD'S GREATEST, SAYS JONES

Unique among the arts and industries of the world, printing has retained the traditions and usages of hundreds of years ago while simultaneously it has developed some of the most modern devices known in the progressive march of civilization.

This characterization of the printing industry was voiced by George W. Jones, dean of English printers and noted designer of type, who arrived in Atlanta Tuesday on a friendly tour of United States and Canadian printers. He was accompanied by William Edwin Rudge, of New York, prominent book printer; Mrs. Rudge and her daughter, Miss Alice Jones.

The guild of the printer, the system of apprentices, ancient forms that hail from the era when America was newly discovered and yet unknown in the history of the world, are still to be found in England and in this country among printers, long after its importance has vanished in every other large industrial field, the distinguished printer pointed out.

Side by side with this curious relic of the industry go mechanical wonders in typesetting and in printing presses that prove as amazing to the outsiders as do the ancient traditions of the printing shop. Mr. Jones stated, "It is significant that England, which gave the chapel tradition to America, received from that country the Linotype machine, the most revolutionary mechanical invention of the industry since 1453."

Mr. Jones has many friends among the printers on this side of the Atlantic. Recently the printers of London celebrated his seventieth birthday. He has been a member of the printers' union since he was 12 years old, when he began sweeping the floors of a printing concern. Now he is one of the noted figures of London, foregoing printers and stationers of Atlanta attending. Mr. Jones and his party will leave at noon today for Washington, where they will stay a few days before proceeding to New York, where the veteran English printer will confer with the officers of the American Printing Union.

While in Atlanta Mr. Jones and his party are guests of W. O. Foote, of Foote & Davies, of which concern the officers were scheduled to be host to Mr. Jones at a banquet in the Atlanta Athletic Club, with leading printers and stationers of Atlanta attending. Mr. Jones and his party will leave at noon today for Washington, where they will stay a few days before proceeding to New York, where the veteran English printer will confer with the officers of the American Printing Union.

Voman's Intuition Fulfilled as Mate Is Found at Sea

EUREKA, Cal., Nov. 11.—(P)—Given up for dead, Jorgen M. Greve, chief of crew of the schooner Brooklyn, which sank here last Saturday, was found alive at sea today, fulfilling an unshaken belief of his wife he would return from the ocean to her.

For three days Greve had clung to a bulkhead of the Brooklyn, which went down with its crew of 18 men after it was split in two by giant waves.

And for three days Mrs. Greve stubbornly refused to abandon hope for her husband's return.

The crew of the fishing boat Two Sisters saw the exhausted and nearly unconscious man clinging to the piece of wreckage and rescued him. Physicians believed Greve would survive his harrowing experience of floating at sea 72 hours without food or water.

On three previous occasions Greve's life was saved in shipwrecks and Mrs. Greve said she had an unshaken faith her husband would survive.

"I knew he would come back. I knew it!" she exclaimed as she cried and laughed at her home in San Francisco. Her daughter and young grandchild also were overcome with joy at the happy news.

A coast guard ambulance hurried Greve to a hospital, where he was given stimulants.

Greve said he was unconscious part of the time but despite the intense cold and the huge waves which carried him to sea, had managed to cling to the wreckage.

The fate of his 17 companions was undetermined but it was believed they went down with their ship.

LENNOX SIMPSON DIES OF WOUNDS
PEIPING, China, Nov. 11.—(P)—A telegram from Tientsin today announced the death of Bertram Lennox Simpson, British author who wrote under the name of Futuan Weale, from wounds inflicted by three Chinese gunmen, who invaded his house and shot him in the back.

Simpson, a British subject, was commissioner of customs at Tientsin under the rebel northern general, Yen Hsi-shang. The attack which resulted in his death took place October 1. Mr. Simpson was at work when the group of gunmen presented a card and asked for an interview.

FUNERAL PARLORS RIDDLED BY SLUGS
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(P)—Gangsters emptied a stream of shots today into a Brooklyn undertaking parlor run by the brother of the late Frankie Yale, but they succeeded only in riddling a portrait of Frankie which hung on the wall, on the wall.

The shots were fired from a black sedan which police pursued but could not halt.

In the Uliano & Uliano funeral parlors, one of whose proprietors is Angelo Uliano, Frankie's brother, police arrested two women and a man on the hypothesis that the place might be a gang rendezvous. The assailants' shots shattered a plate glass window, but injured nobody.

Frankie Yale was killed by gangsters two years ago in a foray in which Jack Diamond, his bodyguard, now suffering from another gang assault, was wounded.

Frankie's right name was Uliano, but he was popularly called "Yale."

QUALITY STORES OPENING DELAYED

Formal opening of Quality Service Stores, Inc., in Atlanta, scheduled for this week-end, has been postponed until Friday and Saturday, November 21 and 22. It was announced Tuesday by L. A. Welch, secretary of the organization.

The change was made necessary because of an unavoidable delay in making some of the arrangements for the event, Mr. Welch said, and there was no doubt that plans could be completed for the next week.

The opening banquet will be held tonight in Rick's tea room as scheduled. Mr. Welch said, and arrangements are being made to accommodate between 400 and 500 guests, many being out-of-town.

CHOSEN FOR THE GORGEOUS BOX O' CANDY IDEA AT THE FOX THIS WEEK

Nunnally's
THE CANDY OF THE SOUTH

Rivalling in beauty of color and design the settings of this unique stage show, the special display of the new Nunnally candy boxes in the lobby of the Fox Theatre this week is indeed a fitting compliment to a brilliant production.

Plan to attend the Fox—and don't miss the "added attraction" Nunnally affords. Make it a point to surprise "her" with one of our delightful new assortments.

Interesting is the 36-week candy diet test now being conducted by the girls of the Box O' Candy Idea cast, under the auspices of the National Confectionery Association. In Atlanta Nunnally's Candy is being used in this experiment.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

INSTALLMENT XLIII.

"Dear vicar, how truly kind. You've had tea? Really, you won't. A cushion for your back? It is no kind of you to come round so promptly. Always willing to put yourself out for others."

There was a good deal of this before we came to the point, and even then it was approached with a good deal of circumspection.

"You must understand that I heard this on the best authority."

"You can't tell me who told you?"

"I promised, dear Mr. Clement. And I always think a promise should be a sacred thing."

She looked very solemn.

"Shall we say a little bird told me?"

"That is safe, isn't it?"

I longed to say: "It's damned silly." I rather wish I had. I should have liked to observe the effect on Miss Wetherby.

"Well, this little bird told that she saw a certain lady who shall be nameless."

murderer was concealed in the bushes waiting his opportunity. What you have to look for is a man with a cold in his head."

"Or a sufferer from hay fever," I suggested. "But, as a matter of fact, Mrs. Price Ridley, I think that mystery has a very easy solution. Our maid, Mary, has been suffering from a severe cold in the head. In fact, her sniffing has tried us very much lately. It must have been her sneeze your maid heard."

"It was a man's sneeze," said Mrs. Price Ridley firmly. "And you couldn't hear your maid sneeze in your kitchen from our gate."

"You couldn't hear anyone sneezing in the study from your gate," I said. "Or at least I very much doubt it."

"I said the man might have been concealed in the shrubbery," said Mrs. Price Ridley. "Doubtless, when Clara had gone in, he effected an entrance by the front door."

"Well, of course, that's possible," I said.

I tried not to make my voice consciously soothing, but I must have failed, for Mrs. Price Ridley glared at me suddenly.

"I am accustomed not to listen to, but I might mention also that to leave a tennis racket carelessly flung down on the grass without a press completely ruins it. And tennis rackets are very expensive nowadays."

There did not seem to be rhyme or reason in this flank attack. It bewildered me utterly.

"But perhaps you don't agree," said Mrs. Price Ridley.

"Oh, I do—certainly."

"I am glad. Well, that is all I have to say. I wash my hands of the whole affair."

Mrs. Price Ridley leaned back and closed her eyes like one weary of this world. I thanked her and said good-by.

On the doorstep I ventured to ask Clara about her mistress' statement. "It's quite true, sir. I heard a sneeze. And it wasn't an ordinary sneeze—not by any means."

Nothing about a crime is ever ordinary. The shot was not an ordinary kind of shot. The sneeze was not a usual kind of sneeze. It was, I presume, a special murderer's sneeze. I asked the girl what time this had been, but she was very vague—some time between a quarter and half-past six, she thought. Anyway, "it was before the mistress had the telephone call and went to bed."

I asked her if she had heard a shot of any kind. And she said the shots had been something awful. After that I played very little credence in her statements.

I was just turning in at my own gate when I decided to pay a friend a visit.

Glancing at my watch I saw that I had just time for it before taking evening-sleep. I went down the road to Haydon's house. He came out on the doorstep to meet me.

"I'm so glad to see you," he said. "What's the news?"

"I told him the latest Stone development."

"A high-class thief," he commented. "Well, that explains a lot of things. He'd read up his subject, but he made slips from time to time. Protheroe must have caught his out once. You remember the row they had. What do they think about the girl. Is she in it, too?"

"Opinion as to that is undecided," I said. "For my own part, I think the girl is all right."

"She's such a prize idiot," I added. "Oh, I wouldn't say that. She's rather shrewd, in Miss Gladys Crum. A remarkably healthy specimen. Not likely to trouble members of my profession."

"I told him that I was worried about sneezes, and that I was anxious that he should get away for a real rest and change."

Something evasive came into his manner when I said this. His answer did not ring quite true. "I suppose that would be the best thing. Poor chap. Poor chap."

"Another kind of bird?" I inquired. To my great surprise Miss Wetherby went off in to paroxysms of laughter and tapped me playfully on the arm, saying:

"Oh, vicar, you must not be so naughty."

When she had recovered she went on:

"A certain lady, and where do you think this certain lady was going? She turned into the vicarage road, but before she did so, she looked up and down the road in a most peculiar way—to see if any one she knew were noticing her, I imagine."

"And the little bird?" I inquired.

"Paying a visit to the fishmonger's—in the room over the shop."

I now know where maids go on their days out. I know there is one place they never go if they can help—anywhere in the open air.

"And the time," continued Miss Wetherby, leaning forward mysteriously, "was just before six o'clock."

"On which day?"

"The day of the murder, of course, didn't I say so?"

"I inferred it," I replied. "And the name of the lady?"

"Begins with an L," said Miss Wetherby, nodding her head several times.

Feeling that I had got to the end of the information Miss Wetherby had to impart I rose to my feet.

"You won't let the police cross question me, will you?" said Miss Wetherby pathetically as she clasped my hand in both of hers. "I do shrink from publicity. And to stand up in court."

"In special cases," I said, "they let witnesses sit down."

And I escaped.

There was still Mrs. Price Ridley to see. That lady put me in my place at once.

"I will not be mixed up in any police court business," she said firmly, after shaking my hand coldly. "You understand that. On the other hand, having come across a circumstance which needs explaining I think it should be brought to the notice of the authorities."

"Does it concern Mrs. Lestranger?" I asked.

"Why should it?" demanded Mrs. Price Ridley coldly.

She had me at a disadvantage there.

"It's a very simple matter," she continued. "My maid, Clara, was standing at the front gate, she went down there for a minute or two—she says, to get a breath of fresh air. Most unlikely, I should say. Much more probable that she was looking out for the fishmonger's boy—if he calls himself a boy—impudent young jackanapes, thinks because he's seventeen he can joke with all the girls. Anyway, as I say, she was standing at the gate and she heard a sneeze."

"But," I said, "why shouldn't she have heard a sneeze?"

Mrs. Price Ridley looked at me in obvious pity for my pooriness of intellect.

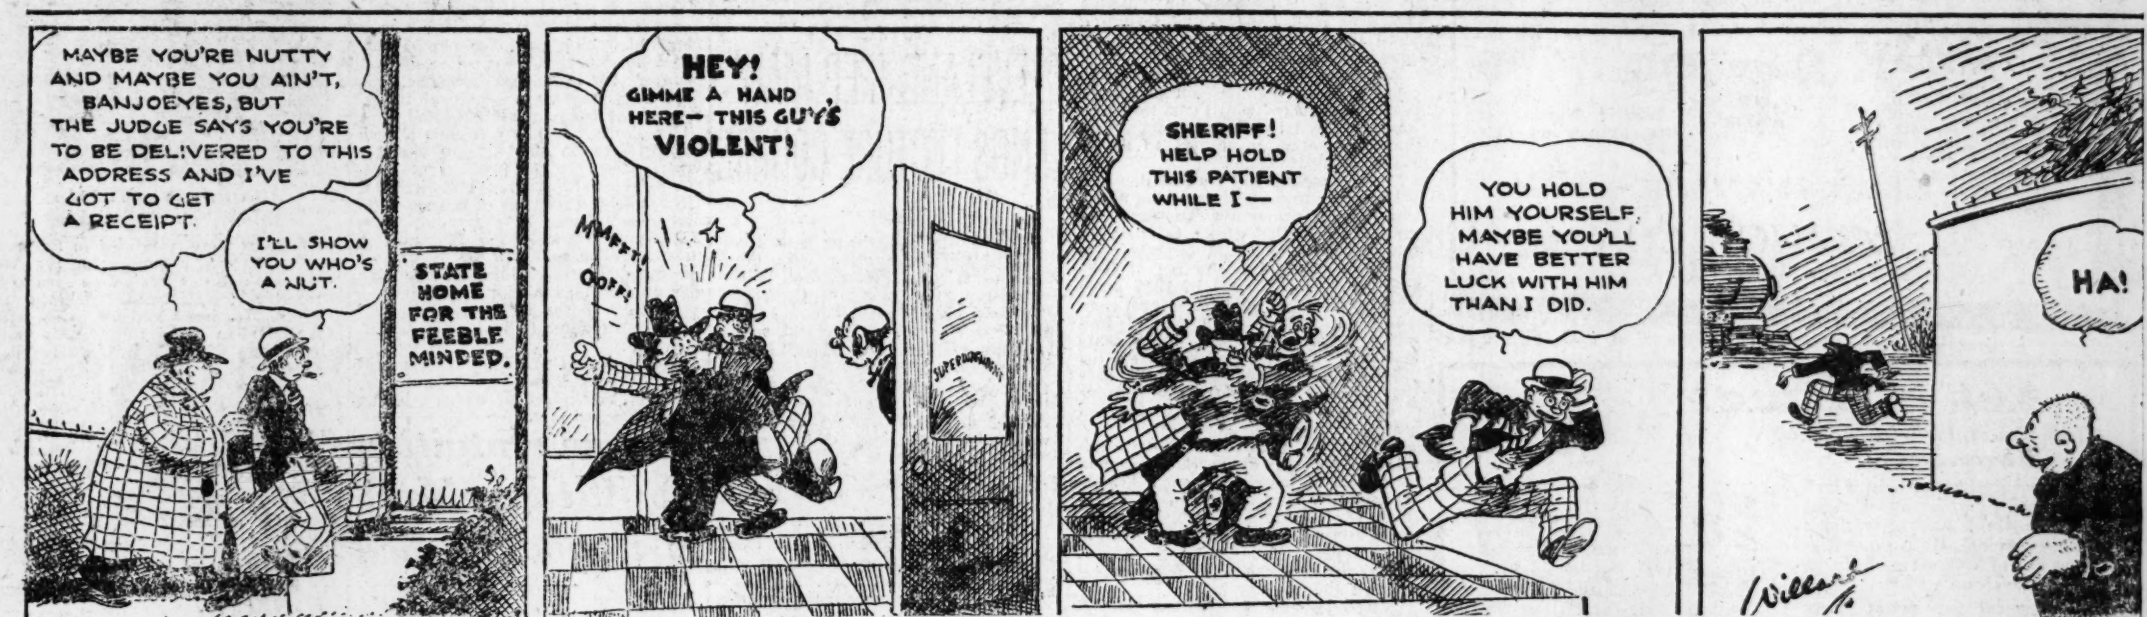

"She heard a sneeze on the day of the murder at a time when there was no one in your house. Doubtless the

THE GREATEST SOUVENIR EVER OFFERED

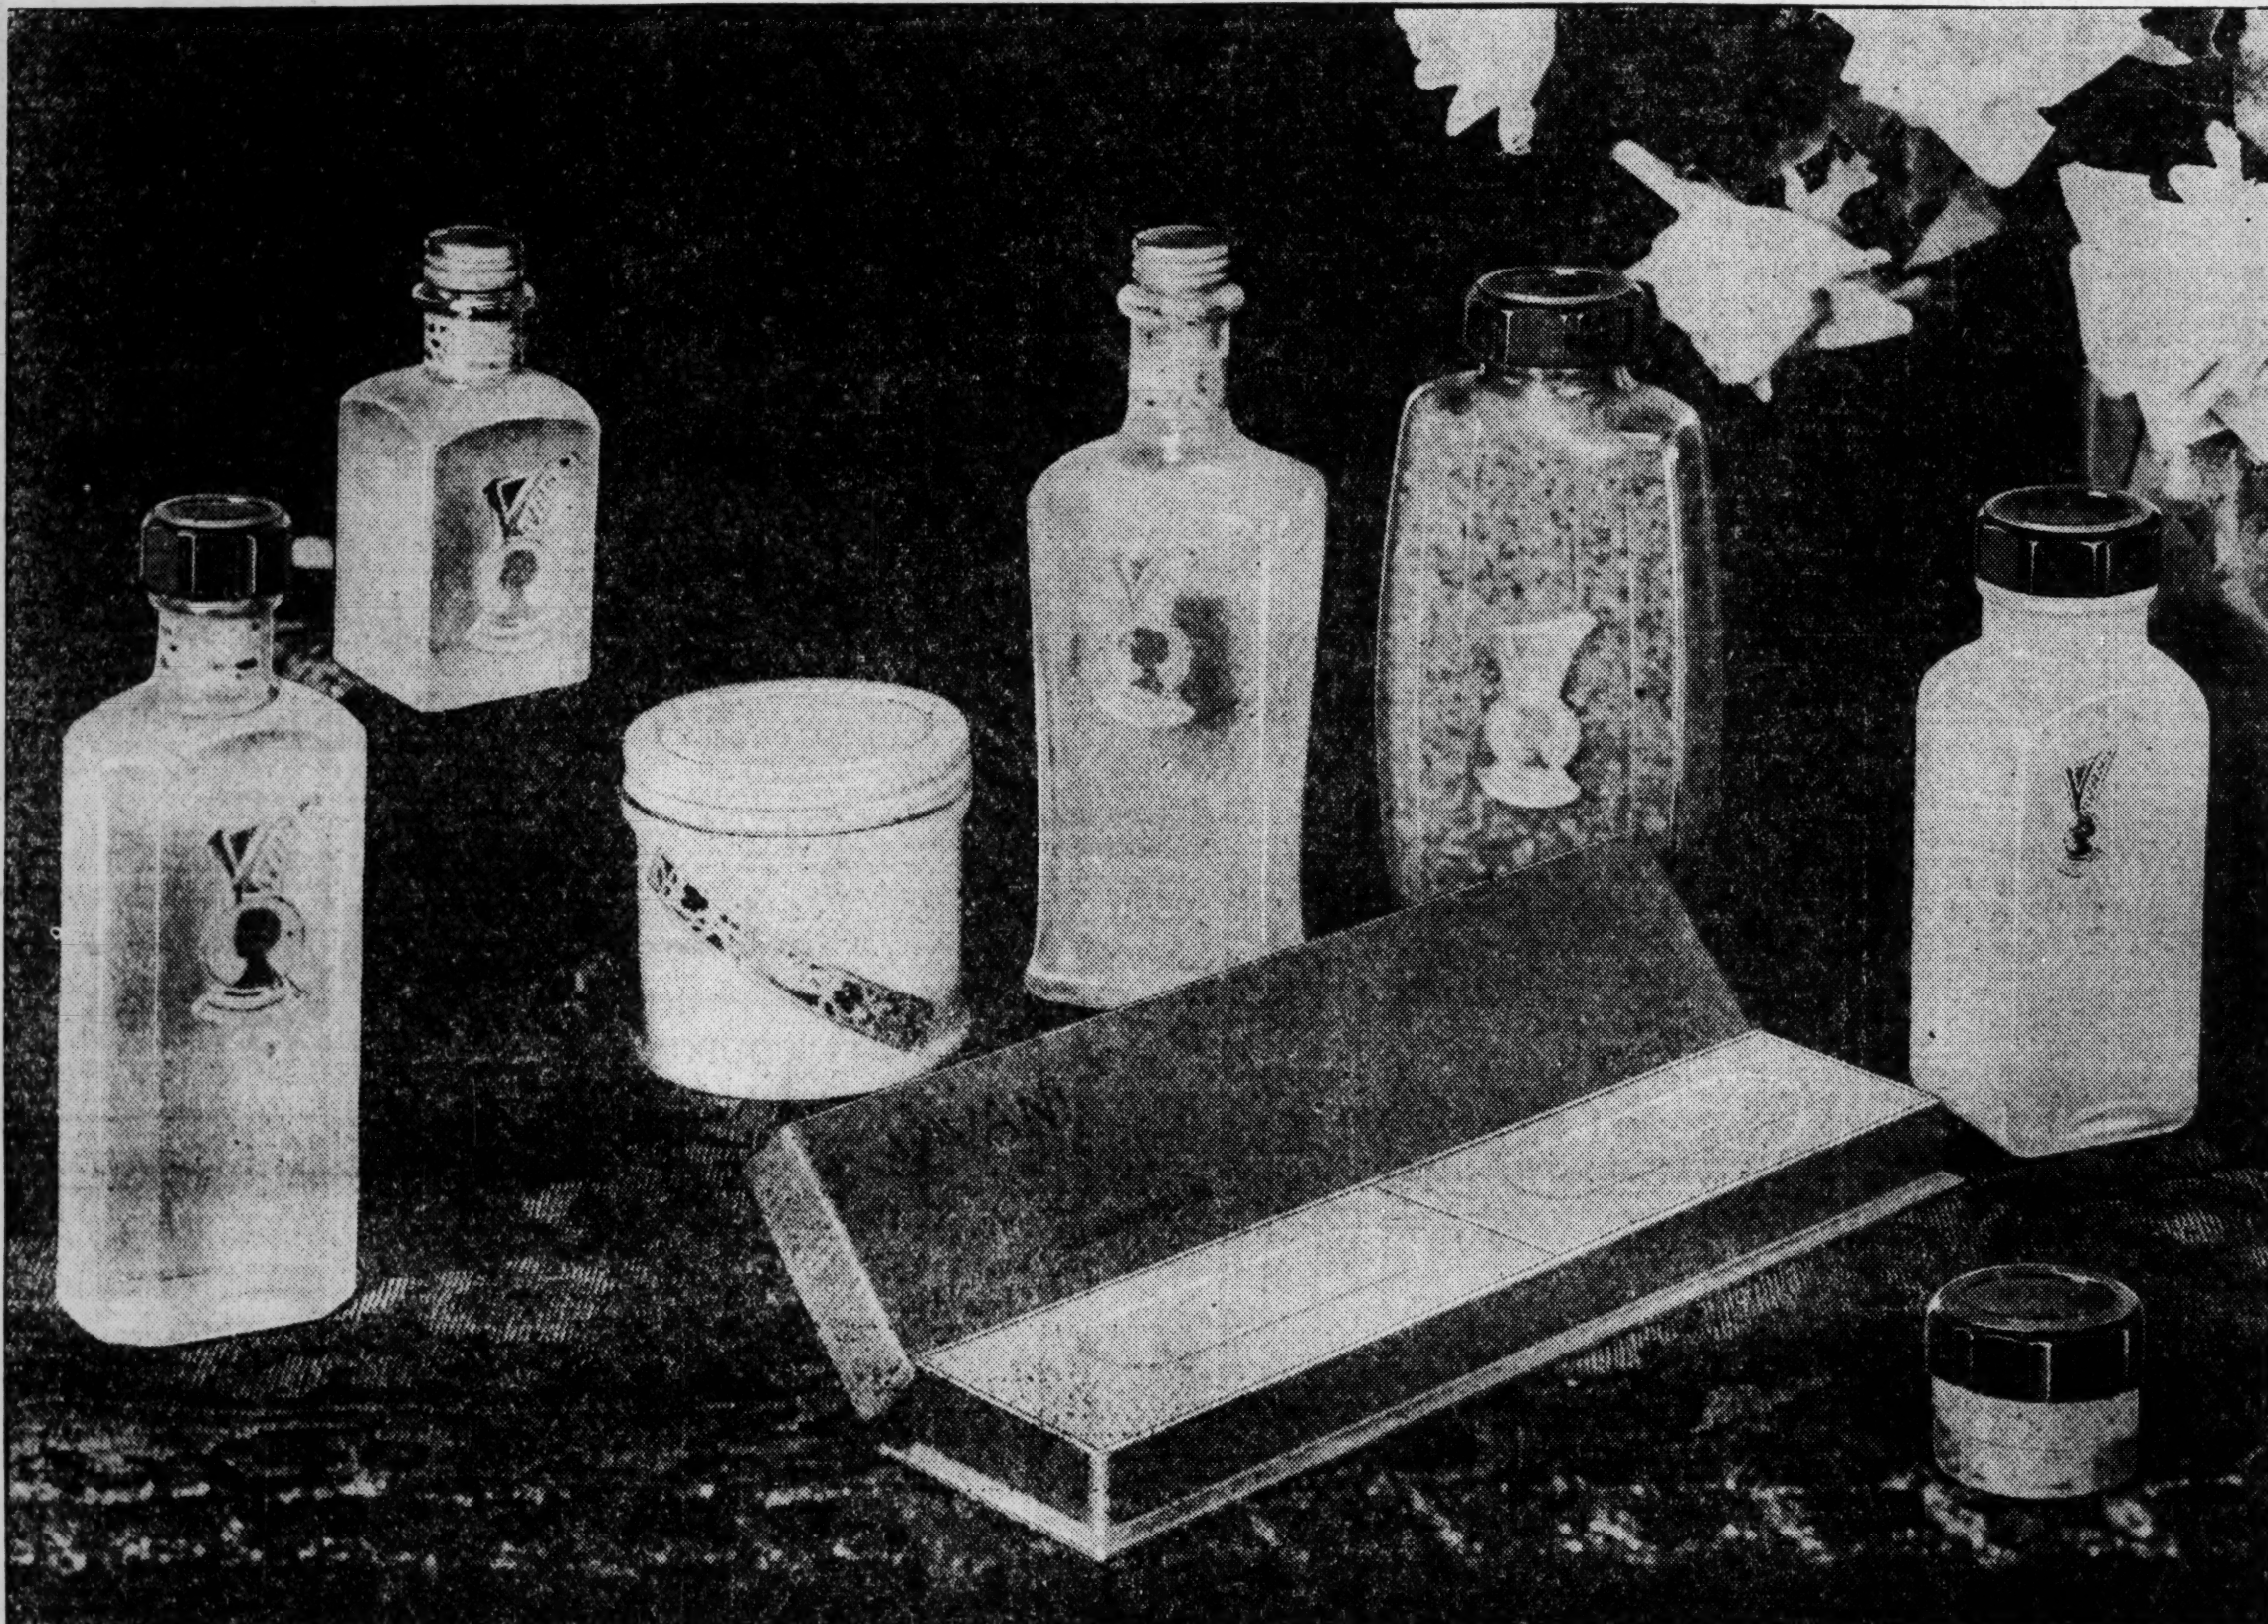

(This Advertisement Will Not Appear Again!)

Any honest merchant, large or small, will tell you that this is the most amazing souvenir offer ever presented to American Women. We will give you this exquisite remarkable set of full size genuine Vivani Beauty Products (not samples—every article regular store size) for the Certificate below and only
With this remarkable set anyone can be attractively beautiful.

THIS IS WHAT YOU GET---

99¢

Plus Postage

One Large Twin Box Vivani Exceptionnel Face Powder

In lavish orchid case, gold lettered. Actually two boxes of powder in one long beautiful case. One powder for day use, another for evening use—both natural blending. An original, new Vivani idea. Included in your souvenir set.

One Large Size Vivani Exceptionnel Waterproof Rouge

In artistic opal jar with genuine bakelite cap. A fitting container for such a fine, natural blending rouge. A new creation, effecting greater living color with the greatest degrees of naturalness. Many women who appreciate fine rouge and who live in sections where there is no Vivani dealer write direct to the makers and consider it an exceptional value at 75c. Vivani has made this type of rouge popular and now other leading makers are selling similar rouges at as high as $2.50 or more. This is really the best rouge because it is the most natural. Included in your souvenir set.

One Large Size Vivani Exceptionnel Beauty Cream

In exquisite modernistic straight line opal jar, white cap with rolled gold edge. Surpassed in appeal only by the immaculate cream inside. A marvelous tissue preparation previously necessary to the woman who would retain the alluringly vivid, translucent skin of youth. Many women have and will regularly pay $1.00 per jar for this fine beauty cream. Included in your souvenir set.

One Large Size Vivani Exceptionnel Brilliantine

Subtle amber in color. In attractive, dainty French square bottle with golden cap. Marvelous for creating the aristocratic lustre so much desired; decidedly excellent for retaining the wave. Vivani Brilliantine is fragrant and adds much luxury to the hair. Like the other Vivani products, this Brilliantine is so good that, if a dealer doesn't carry it, those who have used it would rather send 75c per bottle to the makers of it than to accept a substitute. There's a big, exquisite bottle of this really fine Brilliantine in your souvenir set.

One Large Size Vaza—(Egyptian Emollient Lotion)

In French square flint bottle of generous proportions and intriguing design, climaxed and contrasted by the cap of jet black bakelite. Here is one of the finest lotions ever created for keeping the skin soft, smooth and clear. It prevents and relieves chapping and other irritations. It is excellent for sunburn and wind-rough. Delightfully perfumed. Leaves the skin sweet smelling hours after using. Really no home need be without it, as it will ordinarily cost only 85c for same generous bottle that is in your souvenir set.

One Large Size Vivani Exceptionnel Shampoo

A rich, pure, crystal green liquid in the shapely, flint bottle of long, graceful design, set off by polished golden cap on sprinkler top. Refreshing and invigorating, it immediately gives a sense of supreme head and hair comfort. Adds exquisiteness to the hair. There's a bottle in your souvenir set.

One Large Size Vivani Exceptionnel Skin Tonic and Freshener

Beautiful amber lotion in clear, crystal bottle, artistically capped with bakelite. A delightful preparation and a rare achievement for correcting large pores and refining the skin. Tones the muscles and stimulates. Vivani Exceptionnel Skin Tonic and Freshener is to the cultured woman a necessity after cleansing. Many women have paid $1.25 for this preparation. The large bottle of it is in your souvenir set.

One Large Size Vivani Exceptionnel Bath Salt

Rich lavender color, delicately perfumed, in unique ovalistic bottle, with Vivani gold seal and jet black bakelite cap. An added pleasure for the bath. Just a little produces the most refreshing effect, besides adding delightful odors. Bath Salt is sold at many prices, depending on perfume, kind of bottle, etc. Prices of Bath Salt may range up to $5.00 or more, yet $1.00 should ordinarily purchase a generous bottle of good bath salt. There is an attractive bottle of exquisite Vivani Bath Salt included in your souvenir set.

Advertising of Vivani Beauty Preparations has appeared in most of the metropolitan newspapers in the United States, and in such magazines as Saturday Evening Post, Cosmopolitan, Harper's Bazar, etc., as well as in foreign countries.

THREE YEARS AGO ---THREE MILLION

Approximately three million of these genuine Vivani Souvenir Sets were issued through dealers three years ago and they were eagerly grasped by the women of America as fast as they could be distributed. The charge required with the certificate then was twice as much as this year, when we expect to issue only one million of the sets. SO IT CAN BE READILY SEEN THAT THE DEMAND FOR THESE VIVANI SETS IS GOING TO BE FAR GREATER THAN THE SUPPLY, AND THIS YEAR THE BIG SOUVENIR VIVANI SET IS FAR MORE WONDERFUL THAN EVER BEFORE.

AVOID POSSIBLE DISAPPOINTMENT---

Why the Distribution This Year is Direct Instead of Through Dealers

Dealers do not make anything like a fair profit for their effort in the distribution of the souvenir sets, and it gives them a tremendous amount of work. The dealers make a fair profit, however, on the regular sale of Vivani preparations. The big souvenir sets are issued periodically, about every three years, to acquaint you generously with the new and leading Vivani products. Send for your souvenir set direct, then buy your favorite preparations as required later from your own favorite toilet goods dealer. These are the suggested retail prices of each item as contained in your souvenir set.

ATLANTANS TO ATTEND PHINIZY-TILLMAN WEDDING

Miss Whitman To Be Honored at Parties Today

One of the most interesting events on the autumn calendar of brilliant events of concern to fashionable Atlanta society will be the wedding of Miss Louise Calhoun Phinizy to Thomas McKee Tillman, of Macon, taking place at 9 o'clock this evening at the residence of the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Billups Phinizy, on Milledge avenue in Athens.

Miss Phinizy is a namesake of her paternal aunt, Mrs. Abner Calhoun, who will be among the prominent Atlantans lending their presence to the wedding this evening. The charming bride-elect's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Spalding, their daughter, Miss Bolling Spalding, a member of the bridal party, and other relatives including Dr. and Mrs. Phinizy Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Witham, will motor to the Classic City today to attend this auspicious event. A group of Miss Phinizy's close friends, Misses Mary Middleton, Virginia Torrence, Claire Hanner and Mrs. J. P. Garlington, will augment the Atlanta party attending the Phinizy-Tillman marriage, to which more than extraordinary social importance is attached.

Evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meriwether and their brother, Perryman Little, at their Peachtree road home will compliment Miss Whitman and Mr. Hunt.

Other Events.

A benefit bridge will be sponsored by the Lullwater Garden Club this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. H. White, Ponce de Leon avenue. The committee in charge of the bridge is composed of Mrs. Byron Akins, temporary chairman of the ways and means committee; Mrs. L. Thompson and Mrs. Hoyt Sutton. Attractive prizes will be offered and those having reservations are requested to bring cards, score pads and pencils.

Interest centers in the newly organized dancing club sponsored by the Sacred Heart alumnae, which opens with an informal dance preceded by a short course of advanced instruction in ballroom dancing this evening at the Columbia Club under the direction of Miss Angela Brescia. The following young ladies are in charge: Misses Angela Brescia, Frances Mitchell, Elizabeth O'Donnell, Miss Catherine Fichter, Miss Della Beveridge, and Mrs. Joseph Hanley.

Box Parties Planned For Marionette Show.

A number of box parties are being planned by youthful members of Atlanta society for the marionette performance to be given Saturday morning by the Atlanta Junior League at the Buckhead theater.

Robert Gardner, Jr., will be among youthful hosts entertaining at this interesting affair. His guests will include Allison Thornwell, Jr., Cary Baker, Louis Baker, Ann Belser and Dana Belser. Another party of youthful contentment will include Nina Black, Billy Black, Ann Grant Owens, Frank Owens, Jr., and Clark Howell III. Among other youngsters enjoying the marionettes will be Clara Jones and Bobby Jones III and Jane Hurt.

Pirkle-Weeks Wedding Plans Announced Today

Of interest today are the wedding plans of Miss Sara Kathleen Pirkle and Ralph Eugene Weeks, of Atlanta, formerly of White Pond, S. C., whose engagement was recently announced. The marriage will take place Friday evening, November 14, at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson, at 1037 Boulevard drive.

The ceremony will be performed by Dr. Fred Glisson, pastor of the Inman Park Methodist church, in the presence of about 30 close friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Before the ceremony and during the taking of the nuptial vows a program of nuptial music will be rendered by Morris Styron, well known Atlanta musician.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will entertain at an informal reception after which the bride and groom-elect will leave for a wedding trip to South Carolina. After their return they will take possession of their apartment at 8 Prescott street.

Miss Ouida Turner Is Honor Guest.

Miss Rosalie Cheatum was hostess at a handkerchief shower Friday evening at her home on Gordon street in West End, in honor of Miss Ouida Turner, November bride-elect. The guests were Misses Ouida Turner, Carolyn Mills, Mary Johnson, Irene Turner, Ruth Whiddon, Hazel Turner, Anna Love, Mesdames Wallace Gouge, Louis Smith, A. B. Blue and Frank Gully. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Helen Cheatum.

Wesleyan College Life-Saving Corps Gives Demonstration

Seventeen members of the Wesleyan College Life Saving Corps will be in Atlanta Friday, November 14, for a demonstration of methods of water safety at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 3 o'clock. The Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Atlanta is sponsoring the demonstration, and has issued special invitations to the high school seniors of Atlanta for the occasion.

The Wesleyan Life Saving Corps, with 35 members, over one-third of whom are examiners, is chartered by the American Red Cross. It is under the direction of the staff of the department of physical education, Miss Ernestine Grote, director; Miss Isabelle Kinnett and Miss Virginia Camden. One member of the Wesleyan Life Saving Corps, Miss Marian Jordan, of Macon, distinguished herself in the summer of her sophomore year by rescuing, unaided, two drowning persons off the coast of St. Simon's island.

The program to be given in Atlanta will include demonstrations of the best methods of approaches, carries, breaks, and surface diving, showing how to save oneself from front and back strangle holds, how to break two people apart who are drowning each other, how to bring a drowning person to shore. Besides these, there will be two humorous skits, prepared by the members of the corps, "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheen at the Seashore" and "Evolution of the Bathing Suit." The swimmers will give an exhibition of various types of plain and fancy dives, shallow and deep dives, running front, swim, jack-knife, back, half-twist and flips.

The members of the corps selected to go to Atlanta are: President, Nell Trowbridge, Augusta; captain, Mary Broderick, Savannah; Elizabeth Anderson, Macon; Marian Brown, Cordele; Mildred Bennett, Savannah; Edith Turner, Macon; Malena Lee Memphis, Tenn.; Martha McCaw, Macon; Margaret Murphy, Macon; Caroline Roth, Jacksonville, Fla.; Eunice Partin, Milledgeville; Katherine Lynch, Atlanta; Betty Lin Prater, Dalton; Margaret Hatcher, Macon; Julia Bell, Augusta; Marion Jordan, Macon; Spencer Jack, Atlanta. The alternates are Margaret Carter, Edison; Lillian Pafford, Brunswick; Elsie Graham, Rome; Lydia Womelsdorf, Dry Branch.

FOLLOW THE CROWDS TO RICH'S!

"... No, thank you ... I still have the pair I bought here 50 years ago ..."

She was dressed in black ... the sort of black that does nice things to snow-white hair and skin ivory tinted by time. But there was zest in her eye ... and a keen appreciation of values ... as she balanced a pair of scissors in her hand the other morning at Rich's.

She stood in one of the Street Floor aisles meditatively opening and closing them, examining the point, shifting the weight of them in the palm of her hand ... as one does a familiar tool.

"May I wait on you, please?" inquired the salesgirl hovering solicitously near. "A pair of scissors ...?"

"Oh, no, thank you," smiled the Lady in Black. "I sew a great deal and I appreciate good scissors. But I don't need any."

"You see ... I still have the pair I bought here in 1880 ... and they're perfectly satisfactory!"

Cobb County History Read By Mrs. Boston

MARIETTA, Ga., Nov. 11.—At the annual meeting of the Cobb County Federation of Women's Clubs which was held Friday in the Marietta Woman's Club house an interesting feature of the program was an original reading given by Mrs. John Boston, on men of note in the history of Marietta and Cobb county.

Misses Marion Keith and Wylene Collins, of G. S. C. W., Milledgeville, Ga., spent the week-end with their parents and were accompanied by Miss Bonnie Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holtam, Jr., and Miss Susan Mabry, of Birmingham, Ala., were week-end guests of Colonel and Mrs. John Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Raine, Jr., at Marietta.

William Hagood, of Emory University, was the week-end guest of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Hagood, on Church street.

Miss Miriam Ogletree, of Barnesville, Ga., is the guest of Mrs. C. A. Keith, on Seminole drive.

Miss Sarah Holmes, of Brenau College, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Holmes, on McDonald street.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bohlman, of Gainesville, Ga., were week-end guests of Mrs. James Collins, on McDonald street.

Mrs. Frank Mims is visiting relatives in south Georgia.

Mrs. W. E. Benson and Miss Mary Hodges motored to Rome, Ga., Tuesday and attended a luncheon given by the Rome Kiwanians.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie D. Sessions have returned to their home in La Grange, Ill., after an extended visit with their mother, Mrs. M. M. Sessions, on Kennesaw avenue.

Mrs. Susie S. Wyatt, of Birmingham, Ala., spent the week-end with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ashton Carrisen leave this week for their winter home in Winter Park, Fla.

Misses Myrtice York and Susie Ber-rong entertained with a bridge buffet supper Saturday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Harris, on Church street.

Mr. Raffalovich Will Address Alliance Francaise

Alliance Francaise meets at 3:30 o'clock Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. O. Sanders, 175 Avery drive.

George Raffalovich will speak on "Briand, Peace, and the United States of Europe." Mr. Raffalovich, author and lecturer, has had a most varied and interesting career. He has spent many years in the principal countries of Europe as newspaper correspondent, state agent of Georgia, D. A. R., and secretary of a Rockefeller Foundation mission of study in Italy, and as teacher. As professor of French and international politics he has served at the faculties of Harvard and Dartmouth colleges. He is the author of many books in the field of biography, fiction and international politics, and has contributed widely to magazines on international topics.

Following Mr. Raffalovich, Charles Lordinans will give a talk on the development of dramatic productions for the radio in France. The technique of writing for the microphone being so different from that of the stage has given rise to an entirely new school of writing. One of the most successful writers in this new field is Tristan Bernard. His play for the radio, "Le Narcotique," which has recently been given in France with great success, will be read Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Lordinans.

George McKee, Olivier Vinour and Paul Seydel, Miss Helen Coyne Riley, director of the Atlanta Music Center, will sing several modern French songs.

Co-operation Letter Is Issued.

Mrs. L. J. Elsas, chairman of Fifth District of Georgia Federation to co-operate with the Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind, and Mrs. J. I. Bloom, secretary of the association, have issued a letter to the individual clubs of the district outlining a plan of co-operation.

Some of the suggestions are that the chairmen be appointed as contact representatives between the two organizations, arrangements of programs on work for the blind, with speaker provided by the association and volunteer service in the office of the association at 211 Palmer building.

Volunteers will be trained at the office for various classes of work such as handling calls for glasses with follow-up supervision, co-operation with teaching of sighted and blind classes at Calhoun public school, arranging for hospital accommodation, special rehabilitation work, purchasing of material for blind workers and placing their work on sale, furnishing books in Braille to Calhoun school and Georgia library commission and the making of surveys.

Mrs. Henry Johnson Gives Buffet Supper.

Mrs. Henry Thomas Johnson was hostess last evening at a buffet supper at her home on Barlow street, following the wedding rehearsal of her daughter, Miss Lucyle Johnson, and James Huff, whose marriage takes place this evening.

The home was decorated with quantities of chrysanthemums which were placed in cases about the reception rooms. The guests included: Miss Johnson and Mr. Huff, the honor guests, Misses Evelyn Dewberry, Katharine Dewberry, Phoebe Hines, Elise Nash, Mrs. Mary Caldwell, Mrs. Fisher McDonald, Mrs. W. W. Nash, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Church, Rev. J. L. Allgood, of Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nash, Tom Johnson, Theo McCutcheon and Edwin Nash.

Mrs. Weathersbee To Give Tea Today.

Mrs. Katherine Taylor Weathersbee will be hostess this afternoon at the first of a series of informal teas at which she will entertain during the coming winter season at her home in College Park.

Assisting in the entertainment will be Mrs. A. P. Akers, and residing at the tea table will be Mrs. Joseph Evans Brannen.

Invited to call between the hours of 4 and 5:30 o'clock are Mesdames Oscar Palmer, Henry Stakley, Charles Center, D. D. Akers, Freeman Doss, V. C. Mason, A. T. Akers, Thomas W. Brobst, J. W. Stephenson, C. G. Throbridge, E. F. Gibson, R. H. Padney, B. D. Gray and Miss Annie Thornton.

WHEN CHILDREN CRY

CHILDREN often cry for no apparent reason. Many times we can't guess what is wrong. The crying may mean a touch of colic; the little bowels may be sluggish—or some other upset. It may mean any of the common little ailments that children suffer. To bring quick comfort to your little one, give a few drops of Castoria. Most upsets of children are soon soothed away by this pleasant-tasting remedy that children all love.

In five million modern homes, Castoria is a mother's first thought when a child is out of sorts, feverish, cross, doesn't eat right or sleep right. When bad breath, coated tongue, or languor tells of constipation. These five million wise mothers know that children should never be given stronger medicines meant for the fully developed systems of grown-ups. Castoria is gentle—safe, yet always thorough and effective for a child of any age. It may be given to the tiniest infant for any little upset. When buying, look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

Mrs. Jerome C. Beam Is Hostess at Tea.

Featuring the social calendar yesterday was the tea at which Mrs. Jerome C. Beam was hostess at her home on Brighton road in Brookwood Hills, the lovely affair assembling a large throng of fashionable Atlanta society. The date also celebrated the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Beam who were married in Waco, Texas, Mrs. Beam having been before her marriage, Miss Lilith Gardner.

Autumn foliage combined with quantities of handsome chrysanthemums formed the decorations throughout the reception rooms of the lovely home. Punch was served in the sun-room which was adorned with chrysanthemums in the shades of gold and crimson. The tea table in the dining room was placed before a large bay window at the end of the room, the gold lace cloth over gold tissue repeating the tones in the hangings of the room. An arrangement of brilliantly tinted autumn leaves and chrysanthemums adorned the center of the table, and placed at intervals were tall brass candelabra holding ivory colored tapers.

Those assisting Mrs. Beam in entertaining were Mrs. Charles E. Seiple, Mrs. William Marion Camp, Mrs. Lee Lewman, Mrs. Thomas K. Glenn, Mrs. Frank Inman, Mrs. Carol Latimer, Mrs. Robert Pegram, Mrs. William Candler, Mrs. Joseph Full, Mrs. J. Bulow Campbell, Mrs. Sims Bray and Mrs. Frank Wood, of Chicago.

Several hundred members of Atlanta's society called during these hours.

"THE STYLE CENTER OF THE SOUTH"

Wives of Publishers Entertained By Mr. and Mrs. Howard Coffin

BY MAINER LEE TOLER.
SEA ISLAND BEACH, Ga., Nov. 11.—Hospitality and entertainment equal only to that tendered former President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge when they visited this popular Georgia resort two years ago, are outstanding features of the sixth annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, being held here this week.

While the publishers were in business session today, the wives of the distinguished group of newspaper leaders enjoyed an all-day voyage on the palatial yacht Zapala to Sapelo Island, where they visited the magnificent home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Coffin. The ladies were received by Mrs. Coffin, who was assisted by her niece, Mrs. Alfred W. Jones, and Mrs. J. D. Compton.

Standing in the patio of the beautiful old colonial home, Mr. Coffin related the history of Sapelo and its sister islands, giving a vivid impression of the colorful past of this historic spot.

Following a motor trip over Sapelo Island, the visitors, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Coffin, returned to the Zapala, where an elaborate luncheon was served. Mrs. Coffin wore a smart sports costume of chartreuse green knit silk with a green knit turban to match. Among the distinguished group of women making the trip was Mrs. L. G. Hardman, wife of Georgia's chief executive, who with the governor and their son, Lamartine Hardman, Jr., are spending several days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Coffin aboard their yacht.

The banquet given tonight in the Hotel Cloister dining room was perhaps the most brilliant feature of the entertainment program, with newspaper notables from all sections of the country taking part in the program.

The publishers were welcomed to Georgia by Governor Hardman. Also a warm welcome was extended by Mr. Coffin, developer of this noted Georgia island. Charles H. Taylor, of the Boston Globe, acted as toastmaster. Robert H. Davis, of the New York Sun, and John Benson, of New York, president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, made two of the principal speeches.

Climaxing the interesting stay of these leaders of the American press at this noted Georgia resort will be the visit tomorrow to the Sea Island hunting lodge, where they will spend the day roaming over the 60,000 acres of primitive wilderness. At midday the guests will enjoy a wild turkey barbecue and oyster roast served at Cabin Bluff.

Many of the visitors plan to remain a few days longer at this beautiful resort following the close of the convention tomorrow.

Randolph-Macon Alumnae Club Meets.

Randolph-Macon Alumnae Club of Atlanta will be entertained Friday afternoon, November 14, at 3 o'clock by Mrs. Arthur Raper at her residence, 1079 Oxford road. The program, instead of being literary or educational, will be of a musical nature. Mrs. Robert Cunningham, Miss Lydia Wheeler and Mrs. Raper, a trio of talented musicians in the club, will discuss certain trends in modern music, giving illustrations from songs of Carpentier and others. Piano solos will also be rendered from selections of Debussy, Granados and others.

Former students of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, residing in this city, are invited to be present. Those attending please call Mrs. Raper, Dearborn 2557-W.

O'Keefe P.T. A. Holds Rummage Sale.

O'Keefe P.T. A. holds a rummage sale tomorrow at the municipal market. Contributions may be taken to the school, or Mrs. George McLaughlin will arrange for their collection if a call is given Walnut 5123.

Honor Guest at Today's Social Events

Miss Elizabeth Whitman, charming bride-elect of next Saturday, whose marriage to Robert Hunt takes place at high noon ceremony in North Avenue Presbyterian church, will be honor guest at a series of parties today. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Whitman.

Modern Topics Club Meets Nov. 19 At Mrs. Padgett's

Papers on the "A Nest of Noblemen," by Turgeneff, and "Dead Souls," by Gogol, read by Mrs. W. P. Anderson, will feature the meeting of Modern Topics Club, held Wednesday, November 19, with Mrs. Hardy Padgett as hostess at her home, 1097 Hudson drive. The "Movie Industry" will be discussed by Mrs. W. D. Marshall, and the president of the organization is Mrs. E. A. Stephens.

The corps of officers include Mrs. W. A. Sharp, first vice president; Mrs. Hardy Padgett, second vice president; Mrs. J. E. Abercrombie, recording secretary; Mrs. Jessie Jones, corresponding secretary; Mrs. V. H. Shearer, treasurer; Mrs. W. D. Marshall, press chairman; and Mrs. E. W. Hadley, custodian.

Year book committee includes Mesdames R. N. Fickett, Jr., V. H. Shearer, E. A. Stephens, and Mrs. F. W. Hadley as chairman.

The membership includes Mesdames J. P. Abercrombie, W. P. Anderson, T. D. Body, Walter Cooper, H. N. Fickett, Jr., C. E. Gregory, F. W. Hadley, Jesse D. Jones, W. D. Marshall, Ben Padgett, Hardy Padgett, L. T. Pettit, E. W. Pegram, J. G. Ponder, L. B. Sanders, V. H. Shearer, W. A. Sharp, E. A. Stephens.

Modern Topics Club was organized October 7, 1914, and its colors are purple and gold, while the modest violet was chosen as the favorite flower.

Miss Park Honors Recent Bride.

Miss Celeste Park entertained at a luncheon yesterday at the Georgian Terrace in honor of her sister, Mrs. Charles B. Merritt, whose marriage was an interesting event of October. In the center of the table was a bowl of roses and asters in pink and lavender and the place cards and favors carried out the same color scheme.

The guests were Mesdames Noel P. Park, Henry B. Harris, E. B. McMichael, S. Dan Smith, C. M. McQuarrie, W. R. Brewster, Clyde Watson, W. T. Moore, J. E. Van Valkenburgh, Miss Anne Harris, Mesdames James B. Park, J. A. Smith, Miles W. Lewis, J. G. Faust, Henry T. Lewis, William B. Jackson, Greenboro, and Miss Helen Brewster, of New York.

Barrett-Neeley Plans Announced.

Miss Nina Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Barrett, of College Park, and Amos Hiram Neeley, whose engagement was recently announced, have set the date of their marriage for 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, November 26. The ceremony will be quietly solemnized at the parsonage of Rev. J. F. Alfred, pastor of the Mercer Avenue Presbyterian church, in the presence of only members of the immediate family. The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father and there will be no attendants. Following the wedding the bride and groom-elect will make their home on Allene avenue.

Mr. Carreker Speaks To Glenwood P.T. A.

Glenwood School P.T. A., of Decatur, meets in the school auditorium this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and H. B. Carreker, instructor at the Boy's High school, speaks on "Child Study in the Home." Miss Lena Mae Fairman will sing several numbers, and the children's chorus, trained by Miss Lela Hardeman, will also render several selections. A social hour will be enjoyed in the newly decorated lunch room downstairs.

Chamblee, O. E. S., Holds Meeting.

CHAMBLEE, Ga., Nov. 11.—Chamblee Chapter, No. 110, O. E. S., met Friday evening in the Masonic temple on Howell Mill road. The worthy matrons of the various chapters conferred the degrees on Mrs. Clara Pierpont in an impressive manner. Mrs. George Brown, worthy matron, and J. F. Lloyd, worthy patron of Bolton chapter, presided over the meeting, assisted by Mrs. McDonald, worthy matron of Queen Esther Chapter. As the candidate entered the chapter room, the lights faded into sunset glow. Mrs. Clara Morris and the 1925 matrons were the honor guests of the reception.

The hall was decorated with ferns, evergreens and autumn flowers, and Mrs. Harry Garrett and Mrs. W. H. Pool rendered piano and vocal numbers. On behalf of the chapter, Mrs. L. L. Boyer presented Mrs. Clara Morris, worthy matron of the chapter, with a handsome pewter tea set engraved.

Mrs. Lula Mae Misenhammer remembered her close friends with gifts of pearls and crystal strands as a token of her love and esteem. Mrs. Ida Savell, past matron of Martha Chapter, paid glowing tribute to Mrs. Morris. Mrs. Eva Cummings, one of the beloved members of the order in the state and a pioneer in O. E. S. work, made an inspiring talk, followed by Mr. Mayo, past patron of Decatur Chapter.

Chamblee Chapter is steadily gaining in membership and it is predicted that within a few short years it will be the outstanding chapter in the state. In the past two months this chapter has added to its roll some of the most prominent people in the city and in order to accommodate the large attendance at each meeting will soon move to the Red Men's wigwam. Mrs. Clara Morris is worthy matron, and C. D. Young is worthy patron.

Atlanta Chapter O. E. S. Plans Benefit Concert

Atlanta Chapter No. 57 O. E. S. holds its annual benefit concert Thursday evening, November 13, at the Atlanta Woman's Club. The program is in charge of Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, which includes various groups. Washington Seminary Glee Club, and the "A" Club will take part. The soloist will be Vaughn Ozmer; Mrs. Fred White will read, and Miss Elinor Wilkinson will be the harpist. There are several dance numbers, including Misses Hazel Roy Butler, Tootsie Dunbar, Marion Smith and Louisa Robert. All those holding tickets are urged to attend.

Taking part in the Griffith mandolin ensemble will be: First mandolins, William B. Griffith, Maggie Mae Thompson, Marion Upchurch, William Wallace; mando cello, Rebecca Butt, Walter Bedard, Jr.; second mandolins, Mamie Lattie, Paul Jones, Frank Trylon; mandola, Louise Butt, Sarah Stowell; piano, L'Ella Griffith Bedard; harp, Mary Griffith Dobbs.

Miss Mary Ligon will direct the "A" Club of Washington Seminary, and Misses Sarah Allen and Gail Cain will play the harps in the Griffith mandolin orchestra. Miss Julia Eckford is director of the glee club of Washington Seminary. Funds accruing from the benefit concert will be applied to buying Christmas boxes and baskets for the needy.

Mrs. Martin Amorous, of Marietta, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Evans, of Montgomery, Ala., are at the Georgian Terrace.

$200 Realized By Colony Club At Bridge Party

The sum of $200 was realized by members of the Colony Club, following the benefit bridge party which they sponsored last Thursday at the Atlanta Biltmore. The party was given for the benefit of the Cornelia Moore day nursery, the charity which the club sponsors.

The Colony Club, which is a national social organization of sub-debs, is one of the most exclusive organizations in Atlanta. Miss Mary Blackwell is president of the club, and she was aided at the party by the following committees: Miss Constance Adams was chairman of tickets, and her committee included Misses Charlotte King, Kate Jenkins, Josephine Crawford, Lula Cooker, Kathryn Brooks, Marguerite Anderson and Harriet Grant.

Miss Frances Clarke was chairman of tables, and Misses Katherine West, Katherine Harris, Margaret King, Rena Candler, Judy King, Ann Ridley, Mamie Rane, Elizabeth Mitchell and Frances Morton formed her committee.

In charge of prizes were Miss Jaquelin Moore as chairman, assisted by Miss Harriet Wynne, Ida Nevin,

Mrs. Claude Lyons Honored At Series of Social Events

Mrs. Claude Lyons, of Savannah, who is the guest of Mrs. Fred Brooks, is being feted at a number of social affairs. Mrs. Brooks was hostess at a perfectly appointed luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club Thursday in honor of her guest when covers were placed for Mesdames Scott Candler, Miles Omer, Curtis Thompson, Claude Lyons and Mrs. Brooks.

Mrs. H. B. Earthman and Miss Nell Candler entertain at a bridge-luncheon in honor of Mrs. Lyons Thursday.

Mrs. Conger Gives Informal Tea.

Mrs. L. W. Conger was hostess at a tea Friday afternoon at her home on East Eighth street. The table was lace-covered and a silver basket held white chrysanthemums, and encircled by silver candlesticks held pink candles, the color motif of pink and white being effectively carried out.

The guests included Mesdames J. L. Hawk, L. S. Gilbert, J. M. Garner, Barret, Bonar A. Olds, J. Ross Tucker, Sam Hodges and Harry S. N. Cowan.

Clare Jones, Vaughn Nixon, Alys Kelley, June McClatchey, Katherine Flagler and Virginia Dillon.

November 14, at their home on South Candler street, when covers will be placed for Mesdames Lyons, Brooks, D. T. McWorter, J. Scrutcher, Henry Cassel, W. P. Brawley, R. Frank Shaw, John Fox, Walter Roundtree, Edwin Davis, Curtis Thompson, Ann Groves, Miss Candler and Mrs. Earthman.

Among the other entertainments in honor of Mrs. Lyons will be the party planned by Mrs. John Scott, who entertains today at her home in Scotland for this prominent visitor.

Alpha Epsilon Pi's To Give Reception.

Atlanta Alumni Club of the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity will entertain Thursday evening at a formal reception at the Standard Club in honor of the Epsilon chapter at Emory University.

Members of the Epsilon chapter include Sidney Parks, Ray Harris, Benjie Millender, David Goldwasser, Charles Hoffman, Abe Fitterman, Bernard Cohen, Sidney Rose, Kirk Dornbusch, Sam Zion, Harry Parks and William Estroff. The pledges include Louis Klein, Leon Shalloway, Simon Wender, David Goldstein, Nathan Gershon, Alfred Citrynell and Isadore Hoffman.

LEGAL, DONOVAN SAYS

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—(P)—Former Assistant Attorney-General William J. Donovan today said he did not believe the anti-trust law would obstruct the proposed agreement of producers to limit oil production.

Although he cautioned that he did not undertake to anticipate the decision of the attorney-general, Colonel Donovan told executives at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute that he should not hesitate to go to the government with a curtailment plan.

An agreement to maintain a stable condition to overproduce business, aaters and depressions which come from over production, Colonel Donovan said, could be made a very persuasive argument before a court. He added that it would seem to be in the public interest to maintain a stable production which would prevent the needless waste of an essential national resource.

Concerning the institute's curtailment plan which was submitted to government authorities last year, Colonel Donovan said the oil men should not consider the attorney-general's opinion an absolute rejection of their plan. As he read the opinion, Colonel Donovan said, the attorney-general had merely ruled that he had no power to grant immunity from the anti-trust laws, but he did not register an opinion as to the legality of the proposal.

E. B. Reeves, Tulsa, president of the American Petroleum Institute, had previously called upon the industry to quicken its efforts toward a solution of the problem of excess production.

While reaffirming the "fundamental soundness" of the industry, he reminded the oil men that "the simply stated rule which every man who is both an oil and a business man should follow is to produce toward a solution of the problem of excess production."

CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION DROPS SHARPLY IN WEEK

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 11.—(P)—The country's production of crude oil dropped sharply in the week ending Nov. 8. The daily average production, as estimated by the Oil and Gas Journal, was 2,518,881 barrels, 43,323 less than the preceding week's figures.

The drop, for which the Oklahoma field was largely responsible, carried Oklahoma's output to 489,450 barrels, the lowest level in four years. Southwest Texas, a heavy oil area, contributed 15,632 barrels of the country's decline, its production being placed at 103,226 barrels.

The total production of the mid-continent area is 1,217,771 barrels, a decrease of 28,392. An increase of 2,885 barrels placed the Texas panhandle's output at 84,250.

Doug Graydon Will Not Accompany Jackets on Penn Invasion

STIBLING WINS DECISION OVER DE KUH

TECH TO LEAVE FOR PENN TILT WITHOUT DOUG

Ben Cherry Takes Graydon's Place in Indoors Drill.

By Herb Clark.

Doug Graydon, the Galloping Ghost from Little Rock, will not be a member of the Georgia Tech grid squad which invades Philadelphia Saturday for a clash with Penn's big Red and Blue machine.

That announcement was made by Coach W. A. Alexander, top skipper of the Jacket staff, following a short indoor workout forced by a drizzling rain Tuesday.

"Graydon has been able to play only a few minutes in our last games and has been unable to travel fast when he was in," said Alexander in making the announcement. "A week-end in Atlanta without worry over football looks like the best thing for him. He'll be able to rest up and get entirely well, I hope."

That rain was the only thing which made Armistice Day a holiday for the Jackets. Coach Alexander had planned a rip-roaring scrimmage for his crew of gridiron warriors. It was really quite painful to him and his lieutenants of the coaching staff when the heavens began and continued their quiet weeping.

WORK INDOORS.
The Jackets were corralled in the gymnasium at Grant field, however, as the second best move, and went through a long dummy scrimmage against Penn's plays.

Coach Alexander, having made the decision about Graydon earlier in the day, set to work to pick out a suitable successor to the Arkansas Traveler. Ben Cherry, it seems, is the logical man for the post. He worked with Colvin, quarterback; Hart, halfback; and Strickland, fullback, through a good part of the drill and showed well.

It will probably take a scrimmage to put the final touches to the selection, but Cherry looks like the favorite at the moment. He is a husky youngster who shows plenty of drive as a ball-carrier and seems to have quite a useful knack for defensive work.

CLOSE QUARTERS.
The drill against Penn maneuvers was necessarily hampered by such close quarters. Flat passes, of which the Quakers seem very, very fond, were specialized on, as were dashes at the line. End sweeps and long passes will be fun at the Engineers in scrimmage today.

The short pass attack of the Red and Blue bothered the Jackets no little Tuesday. Those lads from Penn shake at least 15 men loose and eligible on every play, and the Jackets couldn't decide which one to cover. Coach Alexander called a conference of the coaches, however, and the outcome was a new defense which held the plays to a noticeably smaller degree of effectiveness.

The Tech slowing, however, was such as to indicate more and better work on pass defense for this afternoon.

The practice today will be long and hard, judging from Coach Alexander's parting words of Monday. These were: "Well, I guess we'd better get to scrimmaging right away tomorrow. Tharpe, give the Devils a little more work on those Pennsylvania plays now. The rest of you go on in and be ready early tomorrow."

Penn Begins Work For Jacket Game.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Graydon, still kicking after being submerged by the Notre Dame tidal wave last week, Pennsylvania's football squad prepared today to battle with another gridiron storm Saturday in the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech.

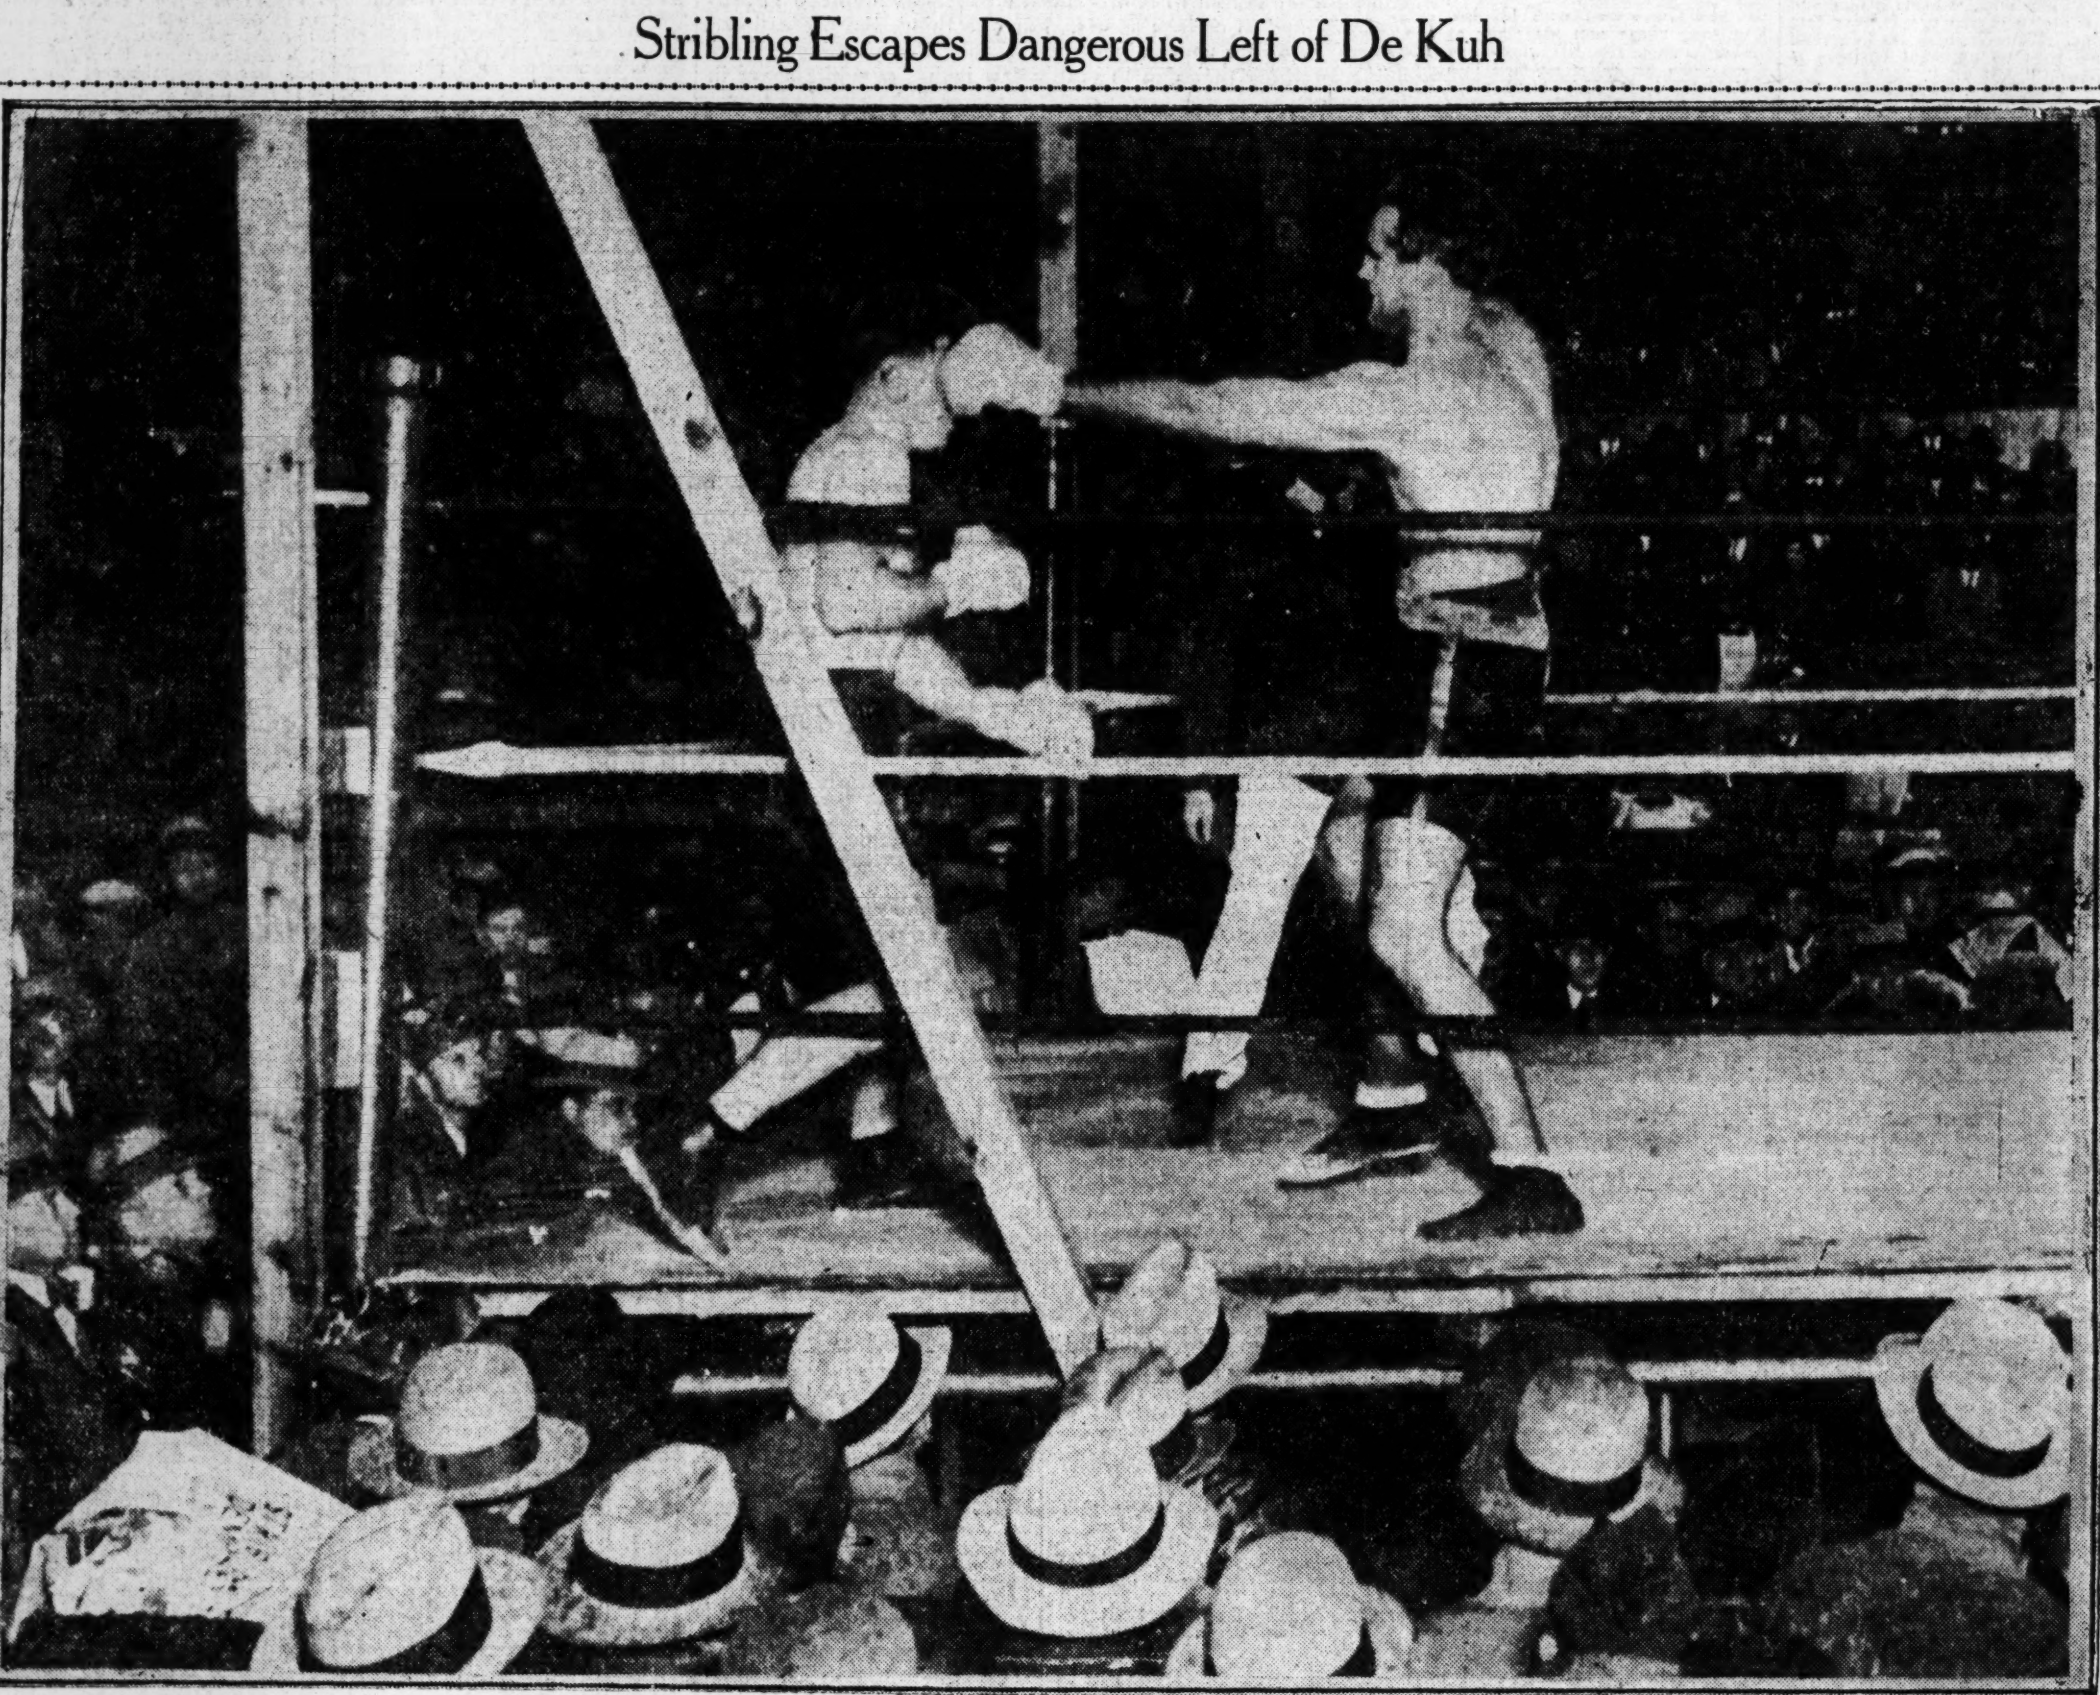

The remnants of the first eleven and all the first call substitutes went through a light workout with a new backfield in action. Captain Gentle and three other regular backs will make no attempt, it was announced definitely, to go marching through Georgia, because of injuries.

To add to the hospital list it was learned today that Bill Rafferty, varsity end, has a broken ankle and will not be available. With the exception of the backfield, which will be given a rest until the Cornell game, most of the other regulars will start against Georgia Tech.

That long left of Arthur DeKuh is shown reaching out after Young Stribling's chin, but the Georgian slipped it. That blow is about all the giant Italian had in the way of an attack. He led with his left and then fell into a clinch. Stribling landed several telling blows but usually the Italian had him "covered" and the Georgian was unable to score a knockout. A flash gun was used to make the above picture due to the dark, drizzly afternoon. Photo by George Cornett, staff photographer.

For the first and last time on any stage: R. J. Spiller as a fight promoter.

That word, cloaked in a joking tone but serious none the less, came from the Squire of Ponce de Leon himself along about dusk while the rain dripped from the roof of the grandstand and a vagrant wind dimly flapped the canopy over the ring.

"That was my first venture at promoting fights and my last," he said. "I know when I have had enough. It just wasn't meant for me to promote a fight. It would have been all right I guess but for the rain. I have promoted a baseball club through years of ups and downs but this fight racket has me stopped."

"You can say for me that from now on I am sticking to baseball, concessions and lithia water."

It is certain that the baseball company took a loss. The receipts were a little over $10,000 and it was known that the expenses would be more than that. And it would have been a big success no doubt but for the weather which kept Jack Dempsey away and slowed up the main event.

THE TABLOIDS IN FULL CRY.

Jack Sharkey's grandiloquent proposal to fight Young Stribling for training expenses in New York for the benefit of the unemployed was a tonic for the tabloids, one gathers from reading recent issues.

They could understand Sharkey's gesture. He spoke their language. He offered to fight Stribling to help the "starving wives and children of the great army of unemployed of New York." Swoosh, went the skyrockets!

Using Sharkey's unselfish offer as a text and Stribling's refusal to rush to the aid of the park bench warmers as incidental music, they have raised a discordant concerto lauding professional athletes as big-hearted brothers.

The next movement was simple and obvious. Seizing the refusal of certain college football teams to participate in post-season games for the benefit of New York's unemployed, they wrote a smashing symphony of condemnation of amateur athletes and athletic systems as heartless and unsympathetic, hypocritical and ungenerous.

The tabloids have pointed out that whereas professional boxers and professional hockey teams have offered their gate re-

MEHRE DRILLS RESERVES HARD

Scrubs Take Scrimmage for Tulane in Rain at Athens.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 11.—The atmosphere was tense—and damp—this afternoon as the Georgia reserves received their heaviest dose of work of the year on Sanford field. Harry Mehre started his campaign to develop them into capable relief men for the already overworked regulars.

The tense attitude in the Bulldog camp today was an outgrowth of Harry Mehre's announced intention of scrimmaging his second string hard enough to enable them to take some of the load off their hard working brothers on the first team.

Upon the scrimmage today depended the plan the Georgia head coach has worked out for his next three games. If the reserves came through well, the problem of relief men for the next three Bulldog games would be solved.

And the reserves came through in a style that cheered Harry Mehre and the few spectators who stood in a drizzling rain and watched the boys scrimmage an hour this afternoon.

GOOD OFFENSE.

They put on an exhibition of offensive work against a combined freshman Red Devil team the like of which they have not displayed for many, many weeks. They were all over the lot today, and they showed the opposition defenses that they were not to be trifled with.

The second string backfield, composed of Sully Sullivan, quarterback; Armin Vaughn and Johnny Davidson, halfbacks, and Lloyd Gilmore, fullback, ripped through the opposition defenses for five touchdowns before the scrimmage ended. And they did it in a way that gave the Georgia coaches new confidence in the ability of their reserves.

They proved their right to a trial by fire against Tulane next Saturday. Harry Mehre will give his reserves their chance against Tulane, if they perform in Wednesday's scrimmage as they did today.

GREAT SHOWING.

The second string line, with three regular players added, gave a great performance this afternoon, probably the best they've given in scrimmages this year. Tiger Bennett and Jimmy Patterson, guards, are not exactly sec-

'The Leaning Gondolier' Came To Stay--And Did

DeKuh Followed "Hold On" Instructions To Last With Strib and Help Record.

By Ed Danforth.

They told Arthur DeKuh, the Leaning Gondolier, to go out there and tie "Thee Street" tight and lean on him for ten rounds and there would be plenty of money for Arthur back east.

Jimmy Hennessey handled Tom Heene once upon a time and has been telling fighters things for 10, these many years. Jimmy knows a few. I have an idea it was Jimmy's thought—the leaning defense that DeKuh used to ride out ten rounds with W. L. Stribling, II, of Georgia, yesterday afternoon in the rain at Spiller field.

Stribling won the decision in ten rounds. DeKuh, or "KeDuh," as a big ring-sider from Macon insisted on calling the Leaning Gondolier, did not win a round. But KeDuh—mean, DeKuh—went the limit with the man who murdered Carnera, Von Porat and Scott, and thereby boosted his rating in the heavyweight class.

All because he had one idea and stuck grimly to it. Jimmy Hennessey had patiently told him over and over again to lean on Stribling and grab and hold on tight. At the finish the big Italian looked at his handlers and smiled blandly. They were delighted with the outcome and said so. It will help them get a better purse up east next month, and DeKuh will have a ton or so of spaghetti for breakfast from now on, if he wants it.

TWO-MAN KILLING.
DeKuh wore out two men: Young Stribling and Jake Abel. Stribling fought and wrestled trying to get loose from the octopus arms that enveloped him. Whenever he could get an arm free Stribling pounded on whatever portion of the tall Italian he could reach. It was tiring work, and Strib was panting at the finish.

Jake Abel was the referee who was substituting for Jack Dempsey. Jake's job was to pry KeDuh—I mean, DeKuh—loose from W. L. Jake grabbed the big man's glove and reared back, but often could not budge them. Jake finally had to do as much struggling as Stribling to get KeDuh—I give up—unfastened. Not so long ago Jake was a pretty mean boxer himself, but he has been out of training for a long time. He, too, was all in at the finish.

JAKE SUFFERS

Of the three men—KeDuh, Stribling and Abel—Abel suffered most. He was all in at the finish.

'BAMA REFUSES CHARITY GAMES

University Votes To Pass Up Offers for Post-Season Tilts.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 11.—(AP)—The athletic committee of the University of Alabama today voted not to accept either of two proposals before it for the post-season appearances of the Crimson Tide on December 6 for the benefit of the unemployed.

Dr. J. J. Doster, faculty chairman of the university athletic board, made public a statement from the athletic committee in which it said that the action was taken to give the players "reasonable opportunity to prepare themselves for the forthcoming examinations."

The proposals included one from Mayor Walker, of New York, for a game between the Crimson Tide and New York University, and the other for a game in the south with one of the outstanding Southern conference teams.

The statement from the athletic committee follows: "The athletic committee of the University of Alabama today had before it two proposals for games on December 6. Following careful discussion and consideration, the committee voted unanimously that neither of the proposals should be accepted for the reason that, after a long and exacting schedule of games, the players are entitled to reasonable opportunity to prepare themselves for the forthcoming examinations."

"In taking this action the committee expresses appreciation of the proposals and regrets that any disappointment must follow its decision regarding these proposals. Yet it is encouraged and gratified in view of the reported attitude of the team itself in giving college work first place and its favorite sport second place."

GIANT ITALIAN 'SMOTHERS' W. L. TO STAY LIMIT

lan made no advance during the 10 rounds.

DeKuh's strength and height told in the clinches. He wrapped his big arms about Stribling so that Jake Abel, who substituted for Jack Dempsey when that worthy was unable to make the airplane trip here to referee, had trouble yanking the Italian loose. DeKuh was rarely out of the center of the ring except when forced to the ropes by a flurry of rights and lefts from Stribling's gloves. He stayed there and waited, leaving to W. L. the slick, outer edge of the ring where the rain was beating in.

CAUTIOUS FIGHT.

The Italian showed a tall man how he might get in a ring and give a smaller man trouble. He stayed up high and when the in-fighting started he clinched and tied up W. L., throwing all his weight on top of him and wrestling him about the ring.

Stribling, despite the clinging arms of the Italian, had a decided advantage in the in-fighting. He landed several punches, but it was not until the tenth that he got an opening and shot in two that rocked the Italian's head.

It was not a crowd-pleasing fight. The Italian, waiting in the ring for Stribling to come on, left all the fighting to Stribling and the end found the crowd booing the fight.

DeKuh had been badly underrated by the fight fans, who had figured him one of the poorer second-raters. He may be a second-rater, but not when it comes to defensive fighting. He has a great protective shell.

There should have been no dispute about the decision. Stribling had done all the leading and had landed a few smart blows. Had DeKuh ever gone on the offense or dared take a chance, the Georgia heavyweight could have made the fight look better. DeKuh went in to stay and he did. Jake Abel had no trouble making the decision.

The crowd evidenced intense disappointment at the failure of Jack Dempsey to appear. Dempsey was to have left Columbus, Miss., Tuesday morning, but the heavy rain, which extended all the way into Mississippi, made it impossible for him to make the flight in the airplane sent for him. The preliminaries, some of which were shoved behind the main event, were pleasing as a whole.

Despite a persistent, cold November rain, which made the veterans feel right at home, a goodly crowd was jamming through the gates at Spiller field a half hour before the first preliminary of the W. L. Stribling-Stribling-Arthur DeKuh fight.

Spiller field offered definite reminders of at least three of the nation's greatest sports. The prize fight ring was built just along the first base line on the baseball diamond. And the goal posts of football had been left standing on the gridiron. Workmen began nailing up supporters for a curbside covering for fans so that the fight might go on as advertised, "Rain or Shine."

AIN'T IT FUN!

The pine seats had gone over the boards at $5 the copy, however, and folks owning them were going to sit there regardless.

One buxom lady came in along with her seat on the front row. She promptly raised an umbrella. The boys behind began glaring.

The rain had hurt and when the first preliminary was announced at 2:15 o'clock, 15 minutes late, the ring side seats were about one-third full and there were perhaps 4,000 people in the stands. The ring side fans numbered about 300.

The crowd was not in a very good mood and the boys who came to "boo" were starting before the first preliminary went on.

Stribling, De Kuh Gate Is $10,500

Receipts were $10,488.10 at the gate of the Young Stribling-Arthur DeKuh ten-round bout yesterday afternoon.

The receipts showed $2561 paid to the announcer from R. J. Spiller last night.

Most of this sum came in on advance sales, but a considerable lot of fans bought grandstand tickets at the last minute to see the bouts under cover. The turnstiles showed $2561 paid the above sum. It was estimated that with the free list and the staff of men necessary to run the show that 4,000 people saw the card.

Rain Monday and Tuesday deterred even Atlantans from attending while the boys were a distance. Rain fell throughout the day and all through the fights. The promoters, however, decided to stage the show even at a loss so as not to disappoint the numbers of fans who had come from a distance. It was advertised "rain or shine" and they went right on through with it.

Giant Italian "Smothers" W. L. to Stay Limit; Fans Brave Chilly Rain.

Three or four pieces of canvas were stretched over the hastily raised up-right and with the ring thus protected the canvas was stretched.

HARD ON PRESS.

Telegraphers at the ring side press seats covered their "bugs" with bright red pieces of oilcloth. The reporters tried to cover their machines with newspapers but in general looked rather helpless as they turned up their collars and stirred their feet uneasily in the mud.

The rain was driving before a wind and leaned against the brown and black mud with persistence if without violence. The crowd kept coming in and the ring side seats began to fill up a bit.

SEARS-ROEBUCK. Just across the street, was doing a brisk business as the ring-side patrons left and returned with large pieces of oilcloth, which they stretched across their shoulders.

NUMBER ONE.

"Fat" Elrod, veteran announcer, clad in his usual habiliments with an extra heavy overcoat over them, climbed on the edge of the ring and announced the first preliminary.

POWDERED RESIN WAS SWEEPED OVER THE RING.

The first preliminary principals entered. They wore bathrobes and had towels pulled around their heads so that they looked like a couple of Old Mother Hubbards on the way to the cupboard. And it was rather bare.

REFEREE'S FAME.

Tim O'Dowd was the referee. Tim has one big distinction. He is the first man that W. L. Stribling ever knocked out.

HARLEY BAKER. Fighting carefully and landing a real punch now and then, over Herb Martin, of Arizona, in the third round, Baker, a Fort McPherson boy, had Martin out on his feet and the referee stopped it.

The second fight, with Mike Fargo, of Rome, meeting Jack Wilson, of Atlanta, found Wilson reaching out carefully like a veteran boxing house man reaching for the biscuit.

HANDY ROBES.

Their seconds put the bathrobes during the fighting, shaking them to put on their charges once the round was over.

The boys were hitting a lot of elbows and butting some but they were keeping warm with a lot of action. Wilson landed heavily now and then and beating Wilson to the punch consistently.

He began to tire. Fargo came back a little. They were both swinging wildly and doing no damage. It was a draw.

BATTLE ROYAL.

The battle which was scheduled to open the card, came on with five of Billy Hooper's colored proteges in action.

Two of them went out quickly, sitting down with a thud, while the crowd cheered. A third went down shortly afterward and the crowd yelled again.

It was more action than they had seen in the two preliminaries. The two survivors fought it out, a tall skinny one in green trunks winning. The loser punched Billy Hooper, the referee, once or twice for the decision.

OFF TO WAR.

Some of the ring-side inhabitants had made old-fashioned soldier hats out of newspapers and placed others about their shoulders, poncho fashion.

One beautiful young thing came in with a light coat, silk stockings, and walked nonchalantly into the ring-side seats while over-coated men stared in amazement.

At 3 o'clock the announcer gave the word that the main bout would go on immediately, with the remaining preliminaries following.

RINGSIDERS ENTER.

Little Mrs. W. L. Stribling came in and took a seat at the ringside. Holders of ringside seats, who had been waiting in the stands, filed out to their seats. There were a lot of expensive fur coats out there. Policemen had to give up their seats. It was a bad break for them.

W. L. was first in the ring.

"HOLD ON" ART FOUGHT TO STAY FULL 10 ROUNDS

Italian Followed Instructions To Stick All Way If Possible.

By Ed Danforth.

Stribling scored with his left at long range and his right at short range. His left glove was cut open by being jammed into De Kuh's chest; his right glove was split at the seams from impacts with De Kuh's chest and short ribs.

But De Kuh was too tall to make the old Buckshot Punch effective. And to hit De Kuh with a right cross is more than any fighter in the ring has been able to do.

ABEL REFEREE.

Jake Abel, substituting for Jack Dempsey, who was unable to fly to the fight because of rain, was in the ring to referee. Jake, who was quite good himself once upon a time in the prize ring, wore white trousers and a green jacket.

ANNOUNCEMENT THAT DEMPSEY COULD NOT REACH HERE FOR THE FIGHT BROUGHT A STORM OF BOOS THAT LASTED FOR SEVERAL MINUTES.

POSE FOR PHOTOS.

"Pa" Stribling superintended the posing of De Kuh's gloves.

The fighters stripped off sweaters and bathrobes.

De Kuh got a cheer. Stribling was introduced as the next heavyweight champion and got a big ovation.

The bell rang. De Kuh punched three slow ones at Stribling's kidneys and they clinched for a moment, breaking themselves.

WORKS CALMLY.

Stribling was working calmly. They clinched again. Stribling broke away and De Kuh fell to the floor. He had not been hit. De Kuh worked Stribling into a corner and missed two light ones that slid off Stribling's head, doing no damage.

Stribling missed a right to the jaw as he came out of the corner. They clinched and Abel broke them. Stribling ducked a right and De Kuh clinched. Stribling missed two light ones, keeping away from De Kuh's punches with an ease that amounted to nonchalance.

EVEN ROUND.

Stribling landed a right to the left as the bell rang. It was even. De Kuh stayed in close and high, evidently trying to avoid the buckshot punch. The ring was wet and Stribling had not opened with anything. De Kuh had stayed too high for any fighting.

They went into a clinch as the second round started and Stribling landed two right cuffs to the head in the clinch.

SHOOTS FOR KIDNEYS.

They broke. De Kuh led with a left but missed. He missed one right two to the kidneys as they clinched. They were not hard, Stribling trying him up.

Stribling brought over a right cuff to the ear and they danced away. Stribling ducked a right and they clinched. De Kuh missed a right and Stribling landed lightly in the clinch. Stribling broke and landed a left to the stomach and a right to the head.

ceipts to help the jobless, college football teams have steadfastly refused.

ALL MIXED UP.

The whole affair is a humorous confusion of issues at stake and an utter failure to appreciate the problems involved in professional and in college sports. For one thing, the professional boxers, being most prominent now among the unemployed, are doing anything they can to grab a few inches of white space in the papers.

And why, after all, should the unemployed of New York demand so much attention from the rest of the country? Aren't there enough boxers and hockey teams in the metropolis to put on a few good shows without help from Young Stribling and the University of Alabama football team?

It makes interesting reading, if you like that sort of reading. Buy one.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE HURT.

The two days of cold rain in our section, the first inclement weather since nobody remembers when, have played havoc with the football practice of Georgia and Georgia Tech.

Georgia faces positively the biggest three-star issue of the campaign in playing Tulane University in New Orleans next Saturday. Georgia needs her best form to beat Tulane. Yet the Bulldogs can have no adequate practice in such weather.

Georgia Tech made a good showing against Vanderbilt and hoped to get really steamed up for Pennsylvania. The Yellow Jackets are anxious to show the east that they are not as bad as they looked against Carnegie Tech.

But the rain has hurt their chances of learning how Gentle and the other great Penn backs run.

The baseball company's prize fight is not the only enterprise that had cause to complain about the weather.

BUSINESS VS. BOXING.

L. W. (Chip) Robert, president of the Atlanta Baseball and Boxing Company, took his disappointment over the bad break in weather like this:

"You have heard a lot about how the current 'business administration' at Washington was making a poor out at running the country. Well, 15 or 20 of the leading business men of Atlanta tried to branch out and indulge in a little prize fight promoting on the side and look what we get. No two ways about it, we will have to stick to business in the future. We look exactly like the republican administration on this deal."

At that it was a shame for such a great show to have been all but wrecked by rain. The setting naturally was dismal and all patrons were extremely uncomfortable, especially the ringside seat holders who had to brave the weather unprotected. The fighters did their best under a temporary covering.

One of the big attractions—Jack Dempsey—was kept in Columbus, Miss., by rain and fog; he was to have flown here by airplane, but no planes could leave the field there. That was unavoidable, too.

All in all, it was a mean quirk in fortune and the baseball company and the Striblings took it gamely.

ond stringers, and neither is Vason McWhorter, sophomore center, but Harry Mehre had them scrambling with the reserves today.

Skinny Davis, who has gotten quite a lot of seasoning this year, and Earl Lynn held down the tackle posts today, and Mack Chenshaw and Weddington Kelly were the ends.

The first stringers, with the exception of Bennett, Patterson and McWhorter, were given another light workout and sent to the showers early.

Another scrimmage for the reserves is on the slate for Wednesday afternoon. They will spend most of the afternoon on defense against the Tulane plays as interpreted by the freshman and Red Devils. A short offensive scrimmage Wednesday will end the heavy work for the reserves.

The varsity will get another light workout Wednesday and will scrimmage offensively and defensively Thursday afternoon before the squad leaves for New Orleans later that afternoon.

WANT KAYO.

The crowd was yelling for Strib to knock him out. The ninth saw Strib duck and land a left. They clinched at the ropes. Strib landed a left to the head and came back with another. He pounded De Kuh's face in the infighting. He made De Kuh miss and landed a right and left to the kidneys. They clinched.

TIGERS TO HAVE FULL STRENGTH FOR MAROONS

Captain Harkins Among Late Cripples Expected To Start Saturday.

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 11.—Having received only minor bruises in the game with Tulane last Saturday in New Orleans, and with trainer Wilbur Hutsell having hopes of getting Captain Dunham Harkins in condition to start against Mississippi A. & M. in Birmingham, Saturday, the Auburn Tigers are expected to be able to use their full force in the important classic with Chris Cagle's club on Legion field.

Captain Harkins did not start against the champions, but was called upon for service when Lee Johnson was injured. He was able to play only 15 minutes, but Hutsell is going to work overtime with him this week to put his shoulder in good shape, because it will be his last chance to perform in Orange and Blue mole skins before thousands of gridiron fans who have watched him since his sandlot days. His home is at Bessemer.

Alternate-Captain Erskine Taylor, Robert Arthur, George Holdcroft, Frank Pace, Carl Creel, Joe Bart and Arthur Kirkby are other Plainsmen who are working hard this week with nothing in view but to make a good showing in the capital of the county where they received their prep training. All hail from Jefferson county.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 11. (AP)—Thomas B. Watkins, chairman of the Southern Baseball Association schedule committee, announced today that the committee will meet December 1 at New Orleans to draft a 1931 schedule. It will be submitted to a league meeting here January 10.

Stribling-De Kuh Fight at Rialto

Fight fans who did not care to wade out to Spiller field Tuesday afternoon to see the Young Stribling-Arthur De Kuh fight may see the heavyweight scrap in a comfortable seat today. The Rialto will run pictures of the fight at the opening show today. The Stribling-De Kuh pictures will be shown there the remainder of the week.

injuries this year, Billie Hill, reserve center, has been moved over to this berth. Hill is a youngster weighing 177 pounds and has stood the knocks that scrubs receive for four years, but hasn't been able to break into the varsity lineup with Captain Harkins. Lee Johnson and Ralph Jordan are performing brilliantly at the pivot post. This might be the break that Hill needs.

The initial drill of the week was light because the Tigers played such a hard game in the Crescent City that they deserved a rest. Only fundamental work was issued to both the line men and backs. Coach Kiley was busy teaching a team of freshman A. & M. plays which they will probably use against the varsity tomorrow.

BARTUSH MEETS MILO STEINBORN ON NEXT CARD

Harper and Zaharias Are Matched for Semi-Final of Tuesday Card.

Bill Bartush, who won from Paul Jones here last week, will wrestle Milo Steinborn here next Tuesday night at the auditorium in a bout which will find Steinborn under guarantee to wrestle cleanly.

Bartush had tried for a match with London here, but asked for Steinborn when that match fell through.

"I won my first match in Atlanta from Steinborn on a foul," he said, "and I am anxious to beat him so that there won't be any doubt in the minds of the fans that I can beat him. Some of them think he is too strong for me because he was leading on points at the time he fouled me and they gave me the match."

Steinborn is anxious to get the match also, being eager to show fans that he can beat the Chicago youngster.

Steinborn lost his temper in the match, which was held in midtown at the ball park, and struck Bartush with his first after being warned. They will wrestle over the two-hour limit.

Matchmaker Henry Weber has an unusually fine semi-windup.

George Zaharias, the Greek star, who defeated Hackenschmidt last week, will meet Paul Harper in the semi-windup.

A New Kind of Gasoline Service for Atlanta

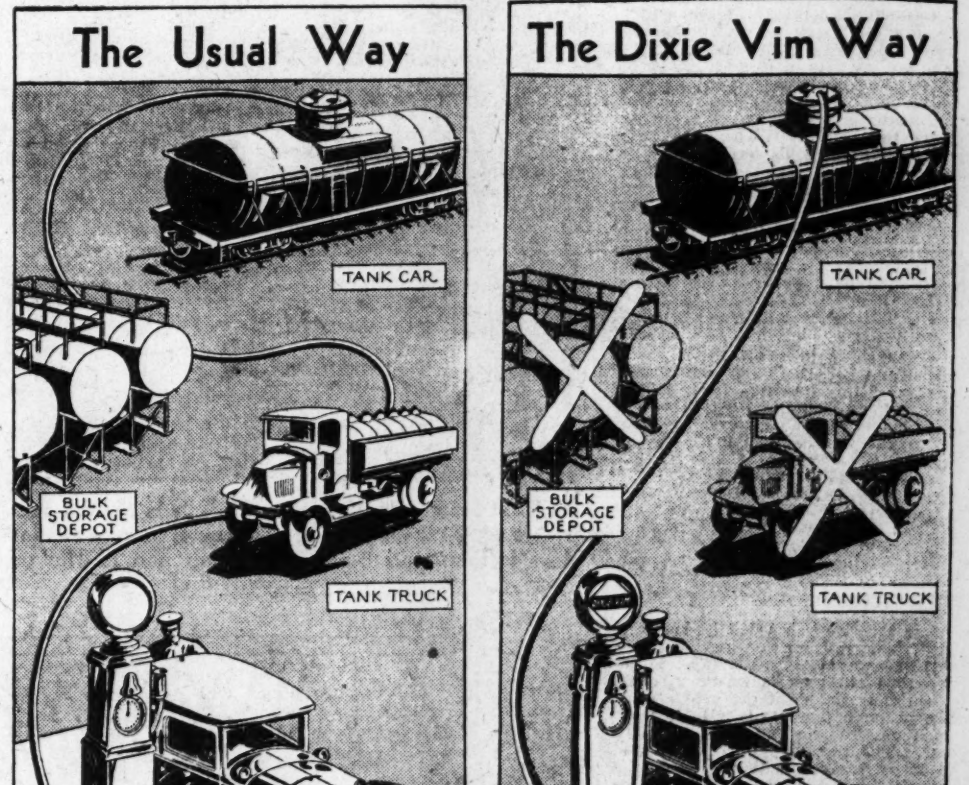

Guaranteed Standard Grade Gasoline

AT 2c A GALLON SAVING

Guaranteed 100% Pure Pennsylvania and Texas Motor Oils

AT 10c TO 15c A QUART SAVING

Here's a Clear Explanation of Why You Save:
DIXIE VIM GASOLINE IS UNLOADED FROM RAILROAD TANK CARS DIRECTLY INTO OUR FILLING STATION STORAGE TANKS

Do not confuse DIXIE VIM Standard Grade gasoline with ordinary cut-price gasoline. What you save by buying your gasoline and motor oil at the DIXIE VIM station simply represents our saving passed on to you.

We eliminate the large investment and costly upkeep on a bulk storage plant. We eliminate the investment and operating expense on a fleet of tank trucks. We eliminate the high first-cost and the extravagant upkeep of elaborate, ornate filling-station buildings.

Our modern, less-costly method of operation is the sole reason for our low prices—the quality of our products is as high or higher than that of any others on the market.

And now we are bringing to Atlanta motorists the same service, the same high-quality products, the same economy that automobile owners of other principal southern cities are enjoying. Our new Atlanta station is now open.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION No. 21

CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1935

Upon the crumbling outer wall of the ruined city of Opar stood a lone figure, Tarzan, Jane Clayton and their black Waziri were the only strangers that the denizens of Opar had ever seen within their valley. Only in half-forgotten legends of a bygone past was there any suggestion that strangers other than those who had ever visited Opar. Yet from time immemorial a guard had always remained upon the summit of the outer wall.
